Straw Hat Day
The Band Wagon
Vegetables and Meat
Listen to Lili Damita

TODAY MEN buy new straw hats. Write this on your tablets: Ten million men in America think more earnestly about this spring's straw hat than they will about next fall's presidential vote.

It looks like a "band wagon rush" for Secretary Hoover William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National committee and Massachusetts leader, will vote for Hoover.

Mr. Mellon's strong endorsement of Secretary Hoover convinces nine "practical" Republicans out of ten that the thing is settled.

There seems to be nothing left of the plan "to beat Hoover" except the possibility that President Coolidge can be induced to change his mind. Those that know the President, even a little, do not expect it.

William Childs, owner of many restaurants, says he is NOT trying to make America vegetarian by refusing to sell meat. Wise man. Vegetarian nations are usually slave nations.

Three hundred million ladies and gentlemen in India eat no meat, because their religion forbids it. They drink no alcohol.

A handful of Englishmen, thousands of miles away, eat plenty of meat, drink plenty of alcohol. But they boss and tax, with a force of only 100,000 British in India.

It took the earth millions of years to produce fertile soil, assisted by earth worms. The cow needs two or three years to produce a beefsteak from grass. Man in half an hour manufactures brains from the beefsteak. Time is money, ergo, meat is money.

Lili Damita, beautiful lady, coming from France bound for Hollywood, says:

"American men are infants. They want to play, to dance, to act childish. They do not interest me. I like men with understanding."

The worst of that is the truth in it. The lady adds:

"I do not marry until I am an old woman."

She might make a film about Abraham's wife. The lady says:

"I have many princes and dukes in love with me."

Your glands regulate your personality. Prof. Berman of Columbia University can prove it. Your four parathyroids, small as a grain of wheat, mean more than all your education. A future revised version may read:

"I will praise the Lord, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made, with my endocrines discharging hormones into the blood stream, and my parathyroids regulating the electrical condition of the lime salts of the body."

And that is no pseudo scientific jest. When thyroids are lacking idiocy is inevitable. Glands account for genius or lack of it, for crime and moral misbehavior. The thyroid is responsible for crimes of passion. Ninety per cent of delinquent girls have enlarged thyroid glands. It is all frightfully complicated.

On top of this endocrine information, Dr. Blum of Berlin says:

"Fathers moderately addicted to alcohol are most likely to have male children, while the offspring of a temperate male parent are pre-eminently girls."

Experiments on animals prove it, German scientists accept it.

Mothers that want boys will kindly remember that German scientists do not use bootleg whiskey in their experiments.

Merely smelling alcohol caused male mice to produce an overwhelming majority of male off

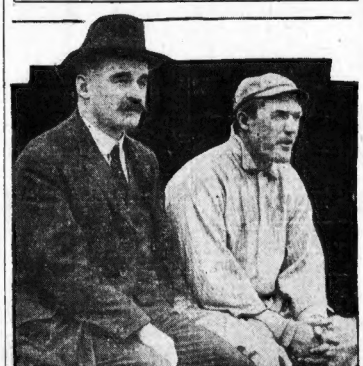
LANNIN, EX-RED SOX OWNER, PLUNGES TO DEATH

Drag for Bodies of 10 Drowned

WHEN LANNIN WAS OWNER



J. J. LANNIN WILLIAM CARRIGAN

AT HOT SPRINGS, 1914—1916

Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, 1914-16, was killed by a fall from his hotel in Brooklyn today. When he owned the team William Carrigan was manager, the same Carrigan that is running the Sox this year. While Lannin was owner two World Series were won. He owned Roosevelt Field and other L. I. property.

PLANE AND DIVER WILL AID HUNT

Brockton, May 15—Grappling irons were used in Moosehead Lake, Me., today in attempts to recover bodies of nine Brockton men and a Maine guide, while Driver Walter MacLaren of ladder 2, former navy diver, volunteered his services to the same end.

Meanwhile, along the shores of Moosehead, searching parties, one led by Police Captain James E. Lajoi of Brockton, apparently sole survivor of the tragic fishing trio, hunted for other possible survivors.

Oil was discovered on the water at West Outlet today, indicating that perhaps the motorboat that carried the ten to their deaths might be on the bottom at that point, with its motor oil slowly filtering out of the engine and rising to the surface.

It is thought that in sinking the boat may have capsized and trapped some of the victims beneath it.

Five more life preservers were also found today, these against the shore at West Outlet, indicating the drift taken by bodies if they drifted at all.

Mayor Harold B. Bent of Brockton revealed that Ladderman MacLaren had volunteered to dive in Moosehead, and the mayor stated also that he is endeavoring to obtain a seaplane to fly over the lake and

Safety of Children Put Up to Mother

By Frank A. Goodwin

Highway Safety Editor Boston Evening American and former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

A little more than a week ago a newspaper carried the following notice:

"Yesterday, ——, aged four, was crushed to death by an auto —— at —— in full view of his mother. The operator said the child ran suddenly in front of his car and it was impossible for him to stop."

MOTHERS!

Stop a moment, close your eyes and visualize this scene. It may be terrible, but a moment's shock may act as a spur to make you spend a few moments each day warning your own children.

It is better to bear an imaginary shock than the reality that has broken the hearts of so many mothers.

Last year 210 children were killed by automobiles in Massachusetts, and every case was investigated and reported upon by an official investigator.

The cause given in 136 cases was:

LANNIN, FORMER BALL MAGNATE, FALLS NINE STORIES TO HIS DEATH

New York, May 15 (AP)—J. J. Lannin, former owner of the Boston Red Sox and present owner of Roosevelt Field and other Long Island property, jumped or fell to his death from the ninth story window of the Granda Hotel in Brooklyn, today.

Mr. Lannin went this morning to the hotel, which he owned, and told the manager that he was going to a room on the ninth floor to inspect some new plastering.

A few minutes later the crash of glass was heard and he was found dead on the roof of a lower extension.

The police manner expressed the opinion that the death was an accident, but police admitted that they were investigating the possibility of suicide.

The manager said that Mr. Lannin had been subject to heart attacks and he believed that he was

POLICE GUARD ROXBURY SHOPS IN GRAFT PROBE

As a result of a visit by Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley to Station 2, where he conferred with Capt. Richard J. Fitzgerald, uniformed policemen were placed on duty to day in front of two shops on Dudley st., Roxbury, near the police station.

Both places are said to have been complained of repeatedly to city and state authorities for liquor selling for several years.

Disclosure of the secret conference at Station 2 was made at the district attorney's office at the courthouse as the Suffolk County grand jury resumed to hear evidence on the "shakedown" of a South End hotel owner by a ring of extortioners.

Another disclosure that caused a stir was that one of the alleged members of the graft ring would demand a chance to appear before the grand jury to defend himself.

SWITCHED CARGO BARES $20,000 EGG THEFT HERE

A $20,000 theft, believed to be a "switch" of imported merchandise, was revealed today with the filing of a customs protest by a Boston importer who claimed a shipment of "frozen Chinese eggs" turned out to be corn meal when they took two cases for samples from bond in a Government warehouse.

The shipment was entered through the port of San Francisco according to customs authorities, and was shipped across country to a Boston warehouse.

The import firm, now in the hands of receivers, was willing to accept the lesser-priced commodity but refused to pay the duty of 15 cents a pound levied on powdered

3 QUIZZED IN LIQUOR INQUIRY AT CAPITOL

Three men, State House employes, were questioned today regarding charges that confiscated liquor found its way into the possession of legislators and other State officials.

The questioning took place in the office of Chairman Charles P. Howard of the Commission of Administration and Finance, in the presence of Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote and Supt. of Buildings Fred H. Kimball, appointed by the Governor to probe the charges.

Following this interrogation, which made a total of five men questioned, it was indicated the board would complete its inquiry and probably turn in its report to Gov. Fuller before nightfall.

One of the men is said to be em-

READING'S IRE RISES AS HE MIMICS PARKER

In a fighting mood, making no attempt to conceal his hostile bitterness, Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading continued today the defense of his conduct in office before the legislative investigating committee.

And for the most part oblivious to sarcasm and sharp retort, former Attorney-General Herbert Parker continued his relentless cross-examination, slow and deliberate on occasion, his manner the courtly attendance of a venerable host presiding at a mixed tea.

Often Reading objected to repeated questions. Once he mimicked his predecessor in office with a "Please, pretty please, with sugar on it." Again he complained openly of the

JAPAN DEMANDS AN APOLOGY FROM CHINA

Tokio, May 15 (AP)—The War Office has instructed Gen. Fukuda, commanding the Japanese forces at Tsinan, to demand the following terms of the Chinese Nationalist government:

First, a formal apology from Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief, in connection with the Tsinan incident; second, punishment of Gen. Ho Yao-Tsu, the Nationalist commander, and others primarily responsible for the outrages; third, suspension of hostilities, propaganda and warlike activities within 70 miles from Tsinan, Tientsin and the Shantung railway; fourth, the Chinese negotiator must produce credentials from Chiang Kai-Shek.

Gen. Fukuda is also instructed to release the Chinese prisoners, but to detain their arms until a satisfactory settlement is reached.

To the Public, Employees and Owners of Securities of Massachusetts Gas Companies

The following statement is made so that everyone interested in Massachusetts Gas Companies and its various activities may be informed as to the basis of rumors being circulated in reference to that enterprise.

At the present time, proposals made by people interested in other public utilities and allied enterprises are being considered by the Executives and Trustees of the Massachusetts Gas Companies, and should terms and conditions be agreed upon which, in the opinion of the officials and Trustees of the Massachusetts Gas Companies, will prove to be mutually advantageous to the security holders, employees and the public, then such plan will in due time be submitted to the stockholders for their approval.

The present chief executives and advisers of the Massachusetts Gas Companies have been connected with that enterprise for over a quarter of a century and have seen the industry grow from a comparatively small business to one of large dimensions embracing many different but allied enterprises, and naturally they have pride and sentiment in the structure they have helped to build, and the holders of the securities and employees of the Massachusetts Gas Companies and its affiliated companies, as well as the public, can rest assured that no action will be taken or recommended by the officials and trustees of the company that will not, in their opinion, prove to be beneficial to all interested.

If an arrangement is made with those we are conferring with, the Massachusetts Gas Companies will secure a new industry valued at many millions of dollars, which has a large earning power, together with $10,000,000 of cash from outside of New England to assist in further developing local industries, and although it is planned that there shall be no change in the present management of the Massachusetts Gas Companies, the present management will have the benefit of the advice of officials of a much larger organization than we now have.

VICTIM AND WIFE

John Sandberg of 343 Copeland st., Brockton, was among the 10 drowned when the motorboat in which a party of 11 was traveling sprang aleak and sank.

SANDBERG RESIDENCE IN BROCKTON

The home of John Sandberg, president of the Brockton Tool Co., is pleasantly located on Copeland st. in the Shoe City. The house, the architecture of which is reminiscent of the Italian renaissance period, is set back from the street sufficiently to show its lines to the best effect.

GUARD SHOPS IN GRAFT PROBE

If refused a chance to testify before the grand jurors this man is said to be ready to make public an affidavit of 20 typewritten pages to show that his connection with the hotel in the South End began two years ago and was legitimate.

A third revelation today was that Asst. Dist. Atty Frederick T. Doyle, who is presenting the "shakedown" evidence to the grand jury, has two mystery witnesses.

When the jury session began, after a recess since Friday, John Sullivan, proprietor of the Ritz hotel on Columbus ave., South End, went in to testify. At noon a recess was declared.

Six policemen and three women stenographers were waiting to testify when Sullivan should finish. They include Capt. George Patterson, head of the liquor and vice squad of police headquarters; Lieut. Daniel Hines and Special Officer Oliver Garrett, members of the squad; Sergt. Arthur Timmins and Special Officers Arthur Tiernan and Martin Conroy. Miss Gertrude Cole, a public stenographer with an office on State st; Miss Anna Walsh of Somerville and Miss Agnes Goodwin were also waiting. The last two were stenographers for two of the men under investigation, according to the authorities.

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley was busy on other phases of the investigation, while his lieutenant was appearing with witnesses before the grand jury.

Another disclosure today in the graft investigation was that the authorities have learned that complaint was made months ago by a Boston man who was being "held up" for $50,000. For some reason, which the authorities intend to find out, this complaint was never investigated.

It was further learned that the man in question sought to withdraw his complaint, in order to keep it from being made public, after he was told by extortioners that if he made it public he stood to lose more than $50,000 on his investment, because he would be forced out of business altogether.

ployed in the liquor vault at the State House, and the two others were firemen employed across the corridor from the room where the confiscated beverages are kept.

The men were questioned individually on statements made yesterday by Freeman D. Dickinson of Harriet av., Dorchester, a boiler inspector in the Department of Public Safety.

Dickinson charged that confiscated liquor had been finding its way into the possession of legislators and other state officials, including an attache of the governor's office.

Officials of the State police branded the charges as ridiculous, declaring that Lieut. Joseph E. O'Connor, in charge of the liquor vault, was the only person who had a key. They also stressed the fact that a "Keep Out" sign is fastened on the door of the liquor vault, although failing to explain how this would deter anyone with the will to steal liquor.

The officials also stated that only hard liquor was kept in the vault, the bulk of the wine, beer and ale brought in being destroyed on arrival by breaking the bottles. The only time, they said, when champagne, other wines or malt beverages were retained in the vault was when they were preserved for use as evidence in court.

attempt to sight the bodies from the air.

WHOLE CITY IN MOURNING.

"The tragedy has swept us in Brockton off our feet," said the mayor today. "These men were all leaders in our civic and industrial life. This is one of the most appalling things we have ever had. The shock is a hard one.

"We will spare neither time nor effort to recover the bodies."

The mayor during the earlier part of today found occasion either to telephone the home of each Brockton man drowned. To the relatives he offered his and the city's condolences and asked that he be informed immediately if any, aid, financial or otherwise, is needed.

At the mayor's request, all occasions of a social character are being either cancelled or postponed out of deference to the men lost, the policemen's ball, scheduled for last night, being the first to be set over indefinitely.

At Greenville today there were a number of relatives and friends of Capt. Lays and of the drowned men.

These included Allen Lays, 42, son of the police official; Deputy Sheriff Lays of Plymouth County, brother of the captain and a deputy under High Sheriff Blake, who was drowned; Emil Dahlborg, brother of one of the victims; Police Inspector William Hill, and Dr. Frank R. French, representing Mayor Bent; Dr. William Weston, who, in other years, had accompanied the ill-fated group of fishermen, and one of the brothers of Dr. Bridgwood, a victim.

CAUSE STILL A MYSTERY

As yet the cause of the tragedy is unknown, Capt. Lays declaring that he felt no bump as of the motorboat striking a rock or snag and springing the leak.

Those believed to be dead include:

Knute S. Salander

FIRE CHIEF WILLIAM F. DALEY of Brockton.
DR. ARTHUR F. PETERSON, formerly Brockton city physician.
SHERIFF EARL F. BLAKE of Plymouth.
DR. DAVID BRIDGWOOD of Brockton, eye and ear specialist.
JOHN SANDBERG of Brockton, manufacturer.
HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER FRED DAHLBORG of Brockton.
DR. FRANK MOBERG of Brockton.
EX-MAYOR HARRY C. HOWARD of Brockton.
KNUTE S. SALANDER, Brockton business man.
SAM BUDDIN of Greenville, operator of the motor boat.

The boat, a staunch craft, 45 feet long, was large enough to accommodate the eleven men, and the ardent fishermen prevailed on Buddin to take them out despite the fact that the northwest wind was kicking up whitecaps.

They were a little more than a half-mile from shore, Capt. Lays said, when the boat struck some obstruction, whether snag or "ice growler" he did not know.

The snag stove a hole in the bottom of the boat near the bow and the craft began to leak. Immediately everybody, though none yet realized the real danger, began to row for the shore, using any bit of wood that could be torn from the boat as oar.

"The boat started to leak," he said. "We all began to bail out the water as the guide headed the boat toward shore. Despite efforts of the whole party the water began to gain. Some of us used pails while the others used their hats.

DOVE OVERBOARD

"The leak kept getting larger, and in a few minutes I sailing looked like a hopeless task. Slowly the water gained and finally reached the carburetor, stopping the engine.

"Buddin broke out oars, hoping to get ashore that way in case we could halt the rise of the water. But I could see the water still rising."

It was then that Capt. Lays performed the feat that he meant as a deed of self-sacrifice, but which actually saved his life. He is a strong swimmer and knew that he was aiding but little in propelling the craft with his piece of board, torn from one of the seats.

So he cried out to his friends: "Here's where I relieve you of 200 pounds, and still holding his piece of board, leaped over the side.

Several times he nearly gave up his struggle in the icy waters. He looked back once and saw his chums rowing with all their strength, though the craft was low in the water and the waves seemed to be breaking over it.

He looked back a few minutes later and saw nothing but the expanse of tossing waters.

"The water was terrifically cold and I didn't think I would ever make it," added Capt. Lays.

"In a few minutes the water worked through all my heavy automobile and fishing clothing. It was a terrible battle every minute to keep my head above water and keep headed toward shore."

When he had all but given up the struggle he found that his feet touched bottom, and he waded ashore.

WANDERED ALONG SHORE

Exhausted and half-frozen though he was, he wandered along the shore seeking other survivors who might have swum to safety, but could find nobody. Finally he gave up the futile search and found a deserted cabin. He built a fire to dry his clothing and then collapsed. He has no way of knowing how long he lay in coma or in sleep, or just what time the tragedy was staged.

FREE BISHOP M'CONNELL OF CHARGES BY M. E. CHURCH

Kansas City, May 15 (AP)—Technical charges of mismdministration and immorality, brought against Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh by the Rev. George A. Cooke of Wilmington, Del., were summarily dismissed today by the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The conference last week voted confidence in the bishop and held that the allegations were without foundation. Today's action was taken so that there could be no complaint in the future that the conference had "whitewashed" a bishop.

eggs. They claimed duty of less than one-third of 1 cent a pound was allowed by law.

Dr. G. H. Adams, chemist in charge of Government inspection at the appraiser's stores, interested himself in the case and immediately assigned an inspector to determine the quality of the merchandise.

The lot totalled 150 cases weighing 200 pounds each, a total of 30,000 pounds. The lower priced corn meal sells for 4 cents a pound, whereas imported eggs in powdered form cost about 70 cents a pound.

The case started an investigation to determine the method used in running the goods by the customs inspectors or effecting the switch after inspectors at the western port had passed and stamped each case. One theory of the Government agents is the possibility that a gang is "working" receivers for bankrupt firms with the idea that possible inexperience might allow the sale of the lot in bulk without proper examination.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS IN FINAL PLEA TO SENATE

BEG FOR VISIT TO GRAVES IN FRANCE

By CORINNE RICH

Washington, May 15—Gold star mothers, many-strong, appeared before a sub-committee of the Senate military affairs committee yesterday to plead for passage of the bill to send them to Europe as guests of Uncle Sam to visit the graves of sons who fell in the World War.

With moist eyes and quivering voices, these mothers, mostly gray-haired women with that indefinable quality of "mother" about them, one after the other told the committee what such a visit would mean to the 3000 women who otherwise would probably never have an opportunity to see the spots where their beloved "little boys" lie.

A number of the mothers who made brief impassioned pleas had already paid tribute to their boys' graves and so were able to tell from personal experience how these journeys of love had consoled them and had helped fill the void in their lives.

"We should not have to beg," said Mrs. Mathilda Burlong of New York, national representative of the Gold Star Association. "This trip, which would be a sacred pilgrimage, should be given us without the asking. It is little enough for the Government to do in return for our sacrifice."

The only discordant note was an impression left by Senator Hiram Bingham (R.), Connecticut, chairman of the sub-committee. Through his questions, he conveyed the idea that, if not openly antagonistic to the bill, he is at least unsympathetic.

Besides the mothers, Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, who is backing the bill, added his word. So did Representatives David J. O'Connell and F. H. Laguardia of New York and W. P. Connery, Jr., of Massachusetts. Laguardia and Connery are ex-service men.

Mrs. Burling declared that since the House passed the bill unanimously last February, she had received press clippings from every section of the country lauding the lower branch for its action.

GRANDMA IS GLAD TOTS ARE WITH MRS. WHITNEY

STILL HOPES TO REGAIN THEM HERSELF

Home—Without her grandchildren—Mrs. Minetta Josephine Whitney of Watertown today justified the Lacosta court decision giving to their mother temporary custody of the two children of Frances Clark Whitney and Harold Osgood Whitney.

Whitney's mother, who had custody of the children for several months prior to the hearing of the cross suits for divorce brought by her son and daughter-in-law, had no comment to make on her expectation of the court's decision in the divorce action.

She indicated, however, that if with final decision of the court she were given their custody she would not be surprised.

In the meantime Mrs. Whitney, Junior, was happy with her children, with whom she is reunited for the first time in six months. Whitney was gloomy and hardly reconciled to the loss of even temporary custody of his little boy and girl.

Under the decision of Judge Matthews Whitney and his mother have the privilege of visiting them or having them as guests "at any reasonable time."

At her Watertown home today the grandmother made the following statement:

"I think it is very nice that Mrs. Whitney should have the children temporarily. They were in the very best of environment in my home and now that she is to have them for a little while I hope that the environment will be better than it was.

"The children love me and their father dearly and had every comfort, two nurses, a French teacher and all kinds of toys to make them happy and they never saw any smoking or drinking in my house. I tried to teach them what was right and proper, but if the judge sees fit to let their mother have them for a while I think it is all right and proper for the mother to share the joy of their presence."

BOY BADLY INJURED WHILE 'HOOKING' RIDE IN REVERE

An unidentified seven-year-old boy was badly injured today as a result of "hooking" a ride on a vehicle in Revere.

The boy, jumping from a wagon at North Shore rd. and Winthrop ave., darted from behind the wagon and was struck by a rear fender of an auto operated by Pauline B. Evans of Middlesex ave., North Wilmington.

On her first summer trip to this port, the Leyland liner Winifredian today docked at East Boston with a number of travelers and visitors among the early vacationists sailing from Queenstown and Liverpool.

Twelve valuable English bunting horses were among the 1500 tons of cargo to be unloaded here.

Leonard H. Brown, an English student, was among the passengers aboard. He contemplates a year's course in American schools of engineering. Miss M. F. Winnek of Belmont completed a tour of Egypt, Palestine and continental Europe, and Miss Winifred Clark of London stepped ashore for the first time in a year when the boat docked.

Others debarking here included the Rev. A. P. Davies, London minister, and Mrs. Davies. Miss D. Aldridge of Formby, Eng., who is visiting her sister at Brookline; Mrs. William R. Lawton of Hingham, Mrs. N. H. Black, Mrs. Anna Murphy and Miss Ruth Naylor of Boston. Mrs. Alice Bourguinon of Providence with her son, Wendall.

Capt. William Hurrucks reported a smooth passage, encountering no bad weather since he left Queenstown.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

HUB DOLLING UP TO WELCOME 3 OCEAN FLIERS

Work of decorating the Boston Arena and City Hall for reception to the three Bremen fliers, Maj. Fitzmaurice, Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Koehl, was begun today.

The fliers will arrive at the Boston airport at 6 p. m. Friday, according to present schedule, and will depart from Boston at 10 a. m. Monday.

Profiting from the Lindbergh reception at the Arena, officials in charge are having constructed a raised and suspended platform at the bandstand end of the sport coliseum.

The fliers and members of the committee will be seated on this platform and because of the elevation all present in the Arena will be able to see them plainly.

5000 TROOPS IN LINE

From the ceiling, which will be painted azure blue, two displays of American, Irish and German flags will be suspended, and from the ceiling's center to the four corners there will be lines of pennants and flags.

Plans for the huge parade Saturday afternoon have been completed and General Alfred E. Foote, chief marshal, will have 5000 troops in line, including regular army outfits, National Guard and five prize companies of school cadets.

When the fliers arrive at the airport, they will be presented, in a roped enclosure on the field, with state medals by Governor Fuller.

Then, in automobiles, they will be driven over the Lindbergh route through East Boston, Chelsea, Charlestown, Memorial drive, Cambridge, to Harvard bridge, to Beacon st., Arlington st. to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

BRIEF TIME FOR REST.

At the fliers' request they will be permitted to rest Friday evening.

On Saturday morning, the three aviators will be greeted at their hotel by Irish and German officials and at 2 p. m. the parade will start through the Back Bay, to be reviewed in Copley sq., and to end at Boston Common, where a reception will take place.

Then the fliers will return to the Ritz-Carlton to rest up for the formal reception Saturday night in the Arena.

BANQUET ON SUNDAY.

The three heroes of the east-to-west flight will attend a solemn high mass in the open air at Fenway Park, Sunday morning, with Cardinal O'Connell expected to officiate.

This is the annual open air mass under auspices of the American Legion and the Spanish War veterans.

On Sunday night the fliers will attend a banquet by Irish and German societies at the Copley-Plaza.

LOVE AND HATE ADD 2 TO CHICAGO DEATH TOLL

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—A woman and a man were slain in Chicago last night; one for love, the other for hate. Laura Leonardi, 25, a mother, was found dead in the apartment of Morris Zimm, 40, vegetable peddar. Relatives received telephone calls from a man who said he was Zimm. "I killed my sweetheart," said the voice. "Now I'm going to kill myself."

Joseph Cavarelle, 42, was the hate victim. He was shot by supposed friends who police believe desired his death in revenge for a wrong in boating activities.

Any man will admit that Emerson College girls knew their queens when they picked Gwendolyn Mann as the ruler of their May Day fete.

TIEUP DELAYS HUNDREDS IN CAMBRIDGE

Hundreds of persons were delayed for work and Elevated traffic was tied up for more than half an hour early today when an Arlington Heights trolley became disabled in Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge.

Within ten minutes the jam was complete from Harvard sq. to Porter sq. and scores of workers were compelled to walk or "hitch rides" in passing autos in order to reach their offices on time.

The snarl was relieved when an Elevated emergency crew remedied the defect.

Boston airport for the first time received a visit from the largest plane in America, used solely for pleasure purposes. It is a three-engined Ford ship of the transport type and is owned by J. H. Rand of New York, who was accompanied by his son and daughter and a friend of the latter, with N. C. Brown as pilot. Photo shows the party at Boston airport before the hopoff on the return trip to Curtiss Field, New York.

CHAIN STORE ROBBER GETS 10 YEARS IN CANADA

St. Albans, Vt., May 15—Joe Walker, alias George Williams, a former resident of this city, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison in General Sessions Court in Montreal for committing eight holdups, immigration officials here learned today. Walker escaped from immigration officers last summer after he had been arrested for smuggling aliens into the United States.

Walker robbed eight chain stores in Montreal at the point of a pistol. He lost his pistol in the last holdup and was trailed by this to a rooming house. The pistol was loaded with blank cartridges. The warrant for Walker was today filed marked for attention "May, 1938." Paroles and pardons are exceptionally rare in Canada, it was pointed out.

SURVIVORS OF WRECKED SHIP LANDED IN BOSTON

The 16 survivors of the French fishing schooner Marie Edmee, cast adrift on the Grand Banks after their ship had been burned, arrived in Boston on board the collier Etna from Swansea, Wales. The men left last night for New York, from which port they will sail tomorrow for France.

A match, lighted on the deck of the Marie Edmee near a can of benzine caused the fire which destroyed the schooner. In the explosion which followed, one man, Francois Angentin, was killed. The explosion occurred at 5 a. m. and for three hours the crew of 33 fought the flames, taking to their boats at 8 o'clock with most of their personal belongings. The two boats soon became separated and nothing has yet been heard of the other boat with its load of 17 men except that it was picked up by a French sailing ship believed to be the Flora.

WARNS YALE STUDENTS OF REGATTA ROWDYISM

New Haven, Ct., May 15 (AP)—The student councils of Yale College, Sheffield Scientific School and the freshmen class, today issued a warning, through the Yale Daily News, against disorderly conduct at the derby day regatta, Saturday, on the Housatonic. In past years there have been complaints from passengers on the observation trains regarding the actions of some student passengers and the councils are calling attention to the fact that the regatta will be abolished by the college authorities if there is any repetition of these complaints.

R. R. Man Dies in Cafe

While eating in a North st. restaurant today, H. K. Smith, New Haven railroad conductor, collapsed and was pronounced dead upon arrival at Haymarket Relief hospital. The body was removed to Northern mortuary.

READING'S IRE ROUSED BY PARKER

method of Parker's conduct at the hearing.

PARKER UNRUFFLED

Unruffled, Parker pursued the inquiry, pacing at times up and down the length of the hearing room, leveling an accusing forefinger at the attorney-general.

Several times Reading was warned to limit his answers to the questions. Representative James, the committee chairman, gave the orders.

Once Parker inquired of Reading what inference he had feared might be drawn from his connection with Decimo Club, and Reading answered, in a voice edged with bitterness:

"That it might be a graft proposition—that I might be bribed. This was the inference that might have been drawn—that you apparently have drawn."

Softly, Parker asked: "Can you complain if such an inference was drawn?"

"I can complain, sir, of the method of your conduct at this hearing," retorted Reading.

PARKER DEMANDS ANSWER

Q—When you were in New York on the seventh of June, 1927, were you still in the attitude of inquiring or investigating the Decimo Club and the conduct of its business? A—I was not.

Q—When had you ceased to consider the Decimo Club within the field of your inquiry? A—Some time since.

Q—When did you reach that conclusion? A—I've all ready gone into that several times, Mr. Parker.

Parker: Go into it again.

Reading: I came to the conclusion on May 20 or May 21 that the Decimo Club was not violating the laws of this Commonwealth. Webster had agreed to send me certain forms, questionnaires and instructions to members, etc. I received those on the 24th. I looked them over and, while I did not like them, I saw nothing contrary to law.

TALKED WITH WEBSTER

Q.—You then felt that you were free if the opportunity offered you to accept employment in that organization? A.—I did, although it did not occur to me at the time.

Q.—When the Websters called on you May 27, the conversation turned on Joseph Webster's statement to you relative to employment. I call your attention to your testimony in which you said: "They told me they wanted to make further inquiries as to the status of the Decimo Club in Massachusetts." A.—Yes.

Q.—Is that true? A.—Yes. Joseph Webster asked me in New York if he might drop in on me when he came to Boston, and I said I'd have no objection.

Q.—At that time you were not in the employ of the Decimo Club, were you—May 27? A.—No.

Q.—And you were then Attorney-General of Massachusetts? A.—Yes, and still am, Mr. Parker.

WHAT INQUIRY MEANT

Q.—And on the visit of May 27 in Boston, Joseph Webster inquired of you as to the status of the Decimo Club in Massachusetts? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you interpret his inquiry to mean? A.—That Mr. Webster wanted to be satisfied in his own mind that the Decimo Club had a clean bill of health in Massachusetts. He wanted to know if I was satisfied with the club.

Q.—Were you about to say that you thought he was putting that inquiry to you, you being the attorney-general of Massachusetts? A.—You can read my mind better than I can, Mr. Parker. I don't know what I was about to say.

Q—You inferred when Mr. Webster put that inquiry to you that he was endeavoring to get information from the most authoritative source, didn't you? A.—The attorney-general is not the most authoritative source.

GAVE DECIMO O. K.

Q.—At that time did you tell him you could find nothing wrong with respect to the Decimo Club? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is it true that on May 27 you told Joseph Webster the Decimo Club was still under inquiry in Massachusetts? A.—No, it is not

Q.—Did you tell him you had completed your inquiry and reached a conclusion?? A.—I don't think I did. In effect, I told him I found nothing wrong. I had no idea at that time I was going to be asked to enter the employ of the Decimo Club.

Q.—But you were invited to enter its employ the following day, weren't you? A.—That's right; the following day.

Q.—I now call your attention to your testimony in response to a question by your counsel, in which you said with reference to the May 27 interview with Webster: "I was a little afraid of representing an organization under investigation." You will remember that I inquired later of you as to what you meant by that statement. A.—Yes.

JUST WHAT WAS MEANT

Q.—So I understand you didn't meant to say an organization "under investigation," but a corporation that "had been under investigation"? A.—That is right.

Q.—Then we understand each other? A.—I am glad we do.

Q—Did you fear the inference that might be drawn if you entered into the employ of an organization that had been under investigation? A.—I will answer that question in the sense that this is an investigation and that you want all the information.

Parker—Please, please—

Reading—Pretty please, pretty please, with sugar on it. You will get all the facts from me.

Q.—Did you fear the inference that might be drawn if you entered into the employ of an organization that had been under investigation? A.—I felt that certain hostile persons might draw inferences.

HITS BACK AT PARKER.

Q.—Did you fear that there were inferences that might be drawn by sane and normal persons? A.—Well, I always considered you sane and normal, Mr. Parker, but I see you drawing inferences.

Asked by Parker to state what he specifically feared the witness said: "That it might be a graft proposition, that I might be bribed. This was the inference that might have been drawn—that you apparently have drawn.

Q.—Can you complain if such an inference was drawn. A.—I can complain, sir, of the method of your conduct at this yearing.

Q.—If you thought that such conclusions would be drawn then why under heaven did you lay yourself open? A.—I took chances of a hostile inference.

Q.—At least, you thought that the entering on such employment suggested the inference you feared. A.—I have already told you that.

Chairman James intervened and insisting that Reading answer the question.

Reading complained to James that he had already answered the question several times. He asked James if he was to understand that the order to answer came from the committee and James informed him that it did.

"Very well," replied Reading, "under such circumstances I will." The compliance of Reading relieved a tense situation.

A.—I thought that hostile minds would draw a hostile inference, but I wanted to avoid that at the outset.

Parker asked the witness to tell what was the decisive moment when he considered his employment began. Reading replied that the formal beginning occurred on June 8.

Q.—Were you in the employ of the Decimo Club before the payment was made. A.—I was.

WASN'T ASKED BEFORE.

Q.—You have not said so before. A.—I wasn't asked that specific question.

Q.—What was the first visible evidence of any work you had done in any way for the Decimo Club? A.—The letter sent on June 1 under the name of Barrett.

"I considered it proper to send the letter in Barrett's name. It was intended to conceal my name so that it could not be advertised," continued the witness.

Parker then asked Reading if his investigation of the Decimo Club had been sufficiently "minute" as to enable him to form an opinion as to whether the club was operating in Massachusetts in violation of the law.

"If you mean by that had I made a microscopic examination, I did not," replied Reading.

Turning to the stenographer, Parker said:

"Read the question and see if there are any microbes in it."

The question was read and Reading looked at Parker.

WAITING FOR ANSWER

"Are you waiting for anything, Mr. Parker?" he asked.

"I am waiting for the question to be answered," replied the veteran prosecutor.

A.—I considered I made a reasonable investigation.

Q.—Were you perfectly satisfied as a matter of law that it was not clear that the Decimo Club and the Apasco Sales Corporation were operating jointly in co-operation? A.—No, they were not.

Reading said he suggested divorcing the two organization because of interlocking directorates. The interlocking directorates of Decimo and Apasco were not illegal Reading said, but he objected to their continuance because of inferences which might be drawn.

Q.—Isn't it true that he treasurer of the National Decimo Club now holds all the Apasco Co. stock? A.—Only for purposes of liquidation.

"I had completely reorganized the Decimo Club," said Reading in response to a question as to what he did to earn his 25,000 retainer.

Q.—Did you desire to eliminate Monjar from the National board of governors? A.—I had no desire to eliminate Monjar but I had a duty to see that the funds which belonged to the club went into the treasury.

WEARS BRAND OF WILD LOVE, GIRL SAYS

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP)—The weird story of a 22-year-old artist's model and film extra of being kidnaped and branded by a former suitor resulted today in the county grand jury indicting John Nelson, 51, trainer of Great Dane dogs for the movies and former author and director of attempted attack and kidnaping.

Jean Weston, the girl, said she had known Nelson for two years, but recently announced she was going to marry another man. He induced her to visit his home, she said, where he bound her and branded her with a tattoing instrument.

Man Killed by Gas

George Moody, 75, a roomer on Birch st., Roslindale, was pronounced a victim of accidental gas poisoning by Medical Examiner Leary after he had been found dead in his room by Mrs. Sarah Adams, the landlady. Moody was fully clothed and a gas jet in the wall was open.

DAZZLE BEATS ALL STOVE POLISHES

WOMEN USED TO FIGHT POWER TRUST INQUIRY

Washington, May 15—Battalions of women speakers were mobilized by the electric power interests to rouse opposition to a senatorial investigation of the so-called Power Trust, documentary evidence in the Federal Trade Commission inveatigation disclosed yesterday.

This movement was begun at least as early as last August, four months before Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.) of Montana was to present his resolution for an inquiry to the present session of Congress.

The Walsh investigation was blocked later by the power lobby and the amended resolution ultimately adopted provided for an inquiry by the commission.

SPEAKING CAMPAIGN.

The plan outlined for the women in official documents contemplated a campaign of speaking before women's clubs throughout the country by paid speakers of the power organizations, schooled for their task by study of "approved" textbooks on public utilities. Addresses to school children were provided for in the same plan.

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, and a past president of the National Electric Light Association, dominant body in the joint committee of National Utility Associations which is the propaganda and lobby organization of the power interests, promoted the speaking campaign, the records showed.

The story was told in the minutes of a meeting of the women's committee, public relations national section, National Electric Light Association, held in Chicago August 22 and 23, 1927. These minutes, introduced into the commission's record, noted that "a chief consideration of the committees for this year will be widest acquaintance with women's clubs and other groups," and continued.

INSULL TOLD PLANS.

"Mr. Martin J. Insull addressed the meeting. Mr. Insull stated the coming year will present several large problems of political ownership to utility and other industries. Among the plans for political ownership agitation is Senator Walsh's determination to investigate public utility corporations with the thought of having legislation enacted affecting the utilities.

"Mr. Insull believes the members of the women's committee through the many opportunities they have to meet people without the industry can do a great deal to disseminate facts relating to the theories of political ownership and to help the industry from unjust and injurious attack."

HERE is the facsimile of "Who's Who" for 1926-1927 ascribing to Senator Smoot the presidency of the Provo, Utah, Electric Company.

Senator Smoot now says that this statement in "Who's Who" is an error. He says he founded the Provo Electric Company, but sold out in 1902.

We must believe the Senator, but it is unfortunate that he allowed that misstatement in "Who's Who" to stand without any recorded correction of it 25 years after it was obsolete.

Senator Smoot, who has just made a 40,000-word speech against Boulder Dam, is in conflict with President Coolidge, who has let it be known that he desires the pending Boulder Dam bill be passed without further delay.

BROTHERS DROWN AFTER SIX BEGIN ROCKING BOAT

Washington, May 15 (INS)—The 1928 has started. Charles Bromley, "rocking-the-boat" casualty list for 18, and Frank Bromley, 25, brothers, were dead today following an excursion on the Potomac with four companions. While returning from an up-river jaunt, the sextette began rocking the boat a few hundred yards off shore. The boat capsized and the brothers were drowned. Their companions swam ashore.

NOBILE MAKES NEW FLIGHT IN POLAR ZONE

Rome, May 15 (AP)—A dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to the Stefani News Agency, reports that Nobile's dirigible Italia took off at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon for another expedition in the direction of the Pole.

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, May 15 (INS)—The violent snowstorm which has been raging here for several days is abating after nearly wrecking Gen. Umberto's polar exploration balloon Italia.

Owing to the fact that the hangar is roofless, vast quantities of snow fell upon the balloon, causing it to sag and threatening to wreck the envelope.

Gen. Nobile in person directed the work of a small volunteer army that kept the snow swept from the balloon as well as they could. Sailors from the supply ship City of Milan were pressed into service. For a time it appeared as though the dirigible could not escape disaster, but Gen. Nobile never gave up hope.

Storm Kills Five in Spain

Madrid, May 15 (INS)—Three persons were killed by thunderbolts during a terrific thunderstorm over northwestern Spain today. Two others were drowned.

Tech Shows Machine to Do Store's Accounting

A central records machine takes care of all the business details of a great department store will be on exhibition at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology tonight.

The exhibit will be made with the use of many facilities and the entire sales personnel of a 100 ton department store.

The central records machine, according to Tech men, extends the use of tabulating equipment in retail stores to accomplish rapidly and accurately the work of sales audit, merchandise control and accounts receivable billing, effecting an interlocking control which has not been possible before.

All data register immediately in a central office, at a single operation.

SISTERS, 79 AND 72, ARE BEATEN TO DEATH IN BEDS

Louisville, Ky., May 15 (AP)—The bodies of two aged sisters, beaten to death as they lay in bed were discovered today at their cottage. A trunk had been pried open and officers advanced the theory robbery had been the motive of the killing of Mrs. Belle Holmes, 79, and Miss Kate Satterwhite, 72. The two women lived by themselves. The bodies were discovered by a neighbor.

500 RUM STILLS SEIZED IN ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND

Glasgow, May 15 (AP)—During four years in England and Scotland alone, more than 500 illicit whisky and beer plants have been seized and in each case fines ranging from $250 to $2500, have been imposed. "Moonshine" at three shillings a gallon wholesale, and at three pounds a gallon retail, offers an attractive profit.

AUBURN GROCER ROUTS ROBBERS SECOND TIME

Auburn, Me., May 15—For the second time in a little more than a year Robert J. Adams of South Bridge st. with his same old shotgun drove two men from his store.

He was awakened by a burglar alarm ringing in his house, which is about 150 yards from the store and when Mrs. Adams turned on the lights string between the two buildings two men were seen climbing out a side window. Mr. Adams discharged the gun at them, and they disappeared into the woods.

Courtney Ready to Hop

London, May 15 (INS)—Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British ace, is expected to hop off for America in a flying boat just as soon as weather conditions permit.

FINDS HUB GIRL DEAD WITH EMPLOYER

New York, May 15—Finding of the bodies of Marie Quinlavan, 20, of Boston, and Benjamin Kirby, 50, wealthy shirt manufacturer, in a gas-filled room at the latter's home at Jamaica, L. I., resulted in a search by police today for evidence which might help them establish a motive for the deaths. A suicide pact is suspected, though the autopsy surgeons said death might have been accidental, as there might even have been foul play.

Miss Quinlavan was Kirby's housekeeper. She came from Boston and in that city had been housekeeper for a man named Green. After the woman came here Green appeared seeking to induce her to return to his residence. Little more than informed the police that Green had a criminal record. Green was arrested and extradited to Massachusetts. It is understood he is awaiting trial at Boston on a charge of arson.

Kirby and his wife separated a year ago.

COL. BRADY FLIES HERE TO INSPECT AIRPORT

Col. Peter J. Brady, reserve officer, a member of the New York airport committee, flew to Boston today to inspect the local airport. Col. Brady expects to return by plane this evening.

BOY, 'HOOKING' RIDE, MAY DIE OF INJURY

Another boy, this one in Revere, was injured today through "hooking" a ride on a vehicle, suffering injuries that may prove fatal.

The boy, eight-year-old Clifford Paine, Jr., of Atlantic ave., Beachmont, was struck by a rear fender of an automobile by Pauline Di Ciemes of Middlesex ave., North Wilmington.

Her car, with Rose M. Crein of Massachusetts ave., was proceeding in North Shore rd. toward Lynn when the boy jumping from a wagon traveling in the opposite direction darted from behind the wagon as the machine passed.

A hole was punched in the youth's skull and after treatment by Dr. Charles Parks of Revere he was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital in Miss Eames' car. The boy's name was placed on the danger list.

HOUSE REAPPORTIONMENT BILL TO BE PUSHED AHEAD

Washington, May 15 (AP)—The house rules committee today decided to give preferred legislative status to the Fess bill to provide for reapportionment of the house membership of 435 upon the basis of the 1930 census.

WHAT charm radiantly fresh smooth skin gives a girl—you know it the instant the close-up is flashed on the screen!

Exquisitely smooth skin is more important for loveliness than anything else, motion picture directors say. Because their skin must be lovely under the cruel lights of the close-up, screen stars guard it very carefully.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars—417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap. All the great film studios, too, have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

"I used to say 'it is impossible—one cannot find a soap of the luxury of imported soaps in America!' Then I found Lux Toilet Soap. As fine as the costliest French soap, makes my skin wonderfully soft and smooth."

1200 WOMEN AT FEDERATION SESSION

The three-day annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs opened today at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, with more than 1200 in attendance.

The session opened with a greeting from Dr. Howard K. Gilduer, chairman of the Swampscott board of selectmen, and Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter, president of the federation, gave an address of welcome.

Annual reports were delivered by Mrs. Edwin L. Preble, clerk; Mrs. Alan V. Mosher, assistant clerk; Mrs. Boyd F. Bowles, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Frederick S. Davis, treasurer.

Assembly singing was led by Mrs. Mabel F. Barstow with Mrs. F. Otis Drayton at the piano.

The following chairmen of committees gave their reports at the first session: Mrs. Carl L. Schober, headquarters, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, club institutes; Mrs. George F. Lang, Federation pin; Miss Marian C. Nichols, civil service. Brief reports to be given by district directors, Mrs. Bert S. Currier, Mrs. Walter A. Hall, Mrs. Heman A. Harding, Mrs. Walter C. Kennedy and Mrs. Henry E. Robert.

Mrs. Robert J. Culbert, chairman of resolutions, has to make her report also.

Tonight there will be a music memory concert open to all club women.

Mrs. Eugene A. Potter is displaying a miniature voting booth, which she has planned and constructed. The display is being shown under the direction of the Political Science Club of Lynn, of which Mrs. Potter is president.

DAUGHTER OF BONAR LAW MADE CITIZEN OF U. S.

Newark, N. J., May 15 (AP)—The daughter of the late Andrew Bonar Law, former Premier of Great Britain, today was an American citizen.

Mrs. Catherine Law Colwell, his youngest daughter, took the oath of citizenship with 699 other aliens in the Federal court room. She is the wife of Kent Galbraith Colwell of Madison, N. J., to whom she was married in London July 5, 1926. At the wedding were Ambassador and Mrs. Alanson B. Houghton.

LEGION DANCE ON THURSDAY

The annual dance of the Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion will take place Thursday night at the Hotel Statler. More than 500 Legionnaires and their friends will participate in the affair. Maj. John Fanning is chairman of the dance committee.

One of the outstanding features will be a midnight show in which principals from Boston's leading theatres will appear. Many members from the "Good News" company now playing at the Majestic Theater will be on hand.

EAST BOSTON TUNNEL BILL WINS FAVOR

The traffic tunnel under the harbor to East Boston seems destined for accomplishment, if the united members of the Legislature agree with the members of the House ways and means committee, which unanimously favored Representatives Will Dunn H. Hearn's bill for the construction of the tunnel.

A recess for further study was defeated and the committee ordered the bill to a third reading unanimously.

Hearn does not anticipate any fight on the bill in the House. He does, however, fear that it will meet strenuous opposition in the senate.

TRUCK HI-JACKED FOR 26 BOTTLES OF LEGAL RUM

A truck containing 26 bottles of pre-prohibition, bottled-in-bond whiskey, being transported legitimately was hi-jacked today on Mt. Auburn st., Watertown. While the driver was in a drug store making a delivery, thieves drove the truck away. It is believed that the hi-jackers were familiar with delivery methods of the Boston concern that owns the truck and trailed it on its route today.

COAST TO COAST IN 48 HOURS BY PLANE-TRAIN

New York, May 15 (INS)—Forty-eight-hour coast-to-coast service from coast to coast will soon be a reality. Announcement is imminent, it became known today, of the organization of a transcontinental air and railroad system, capitalized at $5,000,000, which will undertake to cut down the time it now takes to cross the country.

Linked in the new organization are the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, the National Air Transport and the Boeing and Western Air Transport companies. The directors of the company will be to provide a regular 48 to 52-hour passenger service from New York to Los Angeles and to San Francisco.

Passengers will be carried on trains at night and on planes in the daytime.

The new train-plane organization will be headed by C. M. Keys, president of the Curtis Aeroplane and Motor Company. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was approached to head the company, but declared, explaining while he was at such a service the swift advancement of aviation he would not become financially interested in any individual aircraft company for the present.

Plans call for passengers boarding trains from New York in Columbus, Ohio, to fly from there to Winslow, Kansas, where a train is to join to New Mexico and then fly to Los Angeles.

Financing of the new company is in the hands of Hayden, Stone and Company, Blair and Company, Knight, Clamden and Dysart of St. Louis, J. C. Wilson, of Louisville and other banking houses.

CO-ED LOSES LIFE IN OHIO COLLEGE FIRE

Springfield, O., May 15 (AP)—Fire in Woodlawn Hall, a girls' dormitory at Wittenberg College, early today caused the death of a co-ed and the serious injury to three others, while a score of girls were routed from their beds.

Hilda Sloss, 20, Shelby, O., was found dead in the building by firemen. She had apparently fallen victim of the smoke and was burned

BREMEN RADIO HERO GETS TIP OF JAP QUAKE

Manchester, N. H., May 15 (AP)—News of a severe earthquake in the remote Nishifutano region of Japan was received here today by Stuart Davis, amateur radio operator who was the first man to report the landing of the German plane Bremen in Greenly, Labrador, several weeks ago.

Davis intercepted a message from Japan (JUP) believed to be at Tsuiki, which said the quake had occurred Saturday during a heavy storm and that at least 100 lives had been lost and an undetermined property damage sustained.

The message further said communication had been cut off and a relief expedition organized.

New York, May 15 (AP)—If the radio message intercepted by Stuart Davis, Manchester, N. H., amateur, telling of a severe earthquake in Japan, was authentic, it apparently was much garbled in transmission. Available records show no such Japanese town as Twaiki nor a Nishifutano region. Radio companies also had no such station as JUP on their lists.

BARN FIRE BURNS 65 CHICKENS TO DEATH

Westville, Me., May 15—The pungent odor of burning feathers was made a fun here under command of Fire Chief Giles Frost as extinguish a blaze in a barn owned by Fred Rieman, also used as a broiler house. Rieman lost his 65 chickens in the blaze.

Henry Mueller says—

"There are thousands of grocers throughout this country who sell Mueller's Macaroni Products rather than any other kind—because they've found that Mueller's always gives satisfaction.

"Long ago I promised these good friends of ours that as soon as we could perfect a SAUCE worthy of our product, we would supply them with Mueller's Spaghetti in Cans—Cooked and Ready to Serve.

"This was not an easy task. I was not satisfied with any sauce that had previously been produced for this purpose. So our job was not to imitate—but to create. Something new! Something better!

"Our kitchens experimented with hundreds of sauces and finally produced a sauce that we are very proud of. Proud to offer to the public as the perfect accompaniment to Mueller's Cooked Spaghetti.

"It is delicious. Full of flavor. It recalls the freshness of the kitchen garden. It has character and "tang" to whet the appetite of the epicure yet it leaves no feeling of heaviness.

"My one regret is that Mueller's Cooked Spaghetti, packed in this delicious sauce, can't be produced and sold as cheaply as some other brands.

"But just buy one can of Mueller's and a can of any of these cheaper grades, and compare them—

"You yourself will realize that Mueller's is more than worth the difference."

SAFETY RULES FOR CHILDREN GIVEN BY MOTHERS

WARNING OF AUTO PERIL FOR YOUNG

"Child darting in front of motor vehicle."

There were 8691 children injured in Massachusetts by motor vehicles last year, and it is estimated that 2700 came under the heading:

"Child darting in front of motor vehicle."

How do these accidents happen?

The principal cause was children attempting to cross the street without first looking to the left and then to the right, as they should do and should be taught to do.

Many accidents happen because children especially boys, suddenly run into the street after a ball.

Their only thought was to get the ball. The kiddie car and the bicycle were responsible for some accidents, and many children are killed or injured stealing a ride and jumping off in front of a moving vehicle.

Who has not seen, with a shudder, some child chasing another in to the street filled with moving vehicles?

That piece of thoughtlessness has added to the death toll and the rolling of hoops, playing of football and tag in the streets, have caused their share.

BICYCLE PERIL

Roller-skating in the streets has been another source of accidents, particularly in cases where children had only one skate, which made it impossible to control their action.

The bicycle! Everyone who drives a car has his heart in his mouth passing the boy on a bicycle, because, as a rule, he will not keep a straight course, but persists in wavering back and forth on the road.

If parents buy bicycles, it should be on condition that their boys keep well to the right of the road and keep a straight course.

The best way to get this result from the boy is to take the bicycle from him if he doesn't practice these rules, because it is better for him to lose his bicycle than his life.

While it is rather hard on the children of today to be saying "Don't do this," and "Don't do that," if we don't "DON'T" them, we may lose them or have them crippled for the rest of their lives.

There are others besides children who require "Don'ts."

Every father and mother has a "Don't" coming to him or her and it is this:

"Don't neglect your children. It costs nothing to warn them. It is better to warn than to regret.

MOTHERS ADVISED

The best way to follow this advice is to begin today. Constant warning is bound to bring good results.

DON'T FORGET

Mrs. Harry Carleton, 7 West ave., Salem, writes:

I think you are conducting a worthwhile campaign and as a mother of three children I am grateful.

My children are ten, seven, and two years of age, and I am forever preaching to the oldest ones to be careful of automobiles, especially since Mary, the seven-year-old child, was knocked down by a reckless driver one day about a year ago when she was coming home from school.

The children are lively and keep me in fair repair most of the time, and I guess I have more than 10 safety don'ts to tell them about, but the 10 I am submitting to you I consider very important.

Mrs. Mary McCann, 45 Newton st., Fitchburg:

I have two little girls, one ten and one eight, and I try to teach them all these rules. I think it is a very good plan to have this contest so all can find the best safety rules. I have seen children do everything which I have put down in my list of Don'ts and it is very dangerous.

WIDOW WRITES

Mrs. Agnes McKenna, 151 Elm st., West Somerville:

I am a widow and work every day to support five children and these are the don'ts that I have been warning them to keep. Their ages are 7, 9, 11, 12 and 14.

Mrs. C. A. Tobin, 1977 Dorchester ave., Dorchester:

I am a mother of two children, girls four and eight. After my girl of eight comes home from school I let her take me other girl to the playground. These are don'ts I tell them to watch out for.

Mrs. W. H. Polk, 17 Magnolia st., Arlington:

I am enclosing 10 safety don'ts which I have always tried to impress upon my children. I have but one little girl now of school age (5 years), but I find plenty of opportunity for warning other children playing near our home. If these can be of value or service to any, I shall be happy.

Mrs. Polk's plan of warning neighbors' children is excellent and might be adopted to advantage by other mothers.

"HANDSOME IS" FACING "HANDSOME DOES" TEST

New York, May 15 (INS)—The shapely "Miss Mob is of 1926," who was voted the country's third most beautiful girl at the Atlantic City bathing pageant today faces the charge of being a firebug. She was accused of having burned down a six-family apartment house in Mobile, Pa., as revenge for the landlord's holding her trunks for not paying the rent.

"Miss Mobile" was Miss Vivian Mellowell. Now she is Mrs. D. L. Page, wife of a former aviation lieutenant. She is 23 and, according to police, left her husband because his salary did not keep her wardrobe in the style she desired.

Wales' Ex-Trainer Killed

Detroit, Mich., May 15 (INS)—Patrolman Fred T. Simpson of the Mounted Division, once a trainer for the Prince of Wales and later a double for several western movie stars, is dead today of injuries suffered when his horse fell on him.

OLD AGE FUND BILL IS LAUDED AND SCORED

A legislative bill providing for a public bequest commission and fund was called alternately "socialistic" and "humane" today during a debate in the House. Representative Rice of Brookline termed it an enterprising wedge for non-contributory old age pensions, while Representatives Beck of Chelsea and Kelley of Worcester urged its passage.

BREMEN RELIEF PLANES HALTED BY SNOWSTORM

Pictou, N. S., May 15 (AP)—Adverse weather continued today to balk efforts of the United States army air expedition to salvage the transatlantic monoplane Bremen.

The army amphibian plane piloted by Capt. Ira Eaker and carrying Fred Melchoir, Junkers mechanic, was forced down at Tatamagouche, 50 miles from here, in a heavy snowstorm. The other plane carrying Maj. Gen. Fechet, head of the air expedition to Greenly Island, was safe here after being held fast in the mud at Truro until high tide floated it off the flats.

Capt. Eaker, in a message to Washington, said that a gale and heavy snow barred further immediate progress for his plane.

"Landed Truro en route Pictou on account bad weather," said his message to Washington. "My plane broke anchor rope and lost anchor. Had to take off again to save plane. Forced down Tatamagouche. Heavy snow. Left Gen. Fechet's plane at Truro. My plane uninjured. Will continue when weather permits. Gale and heavy snow now."

The plane carrying Gen. Fechet and piloted by Lieut. Elwood Quesada was driven onto the mud flats by the wind which forced Capt. Eaker to the air again, but was freed at high tide and continued on here. The army fliers had hoped to reach the Bremen yesterday.

4 ARRESTED IN HUB POLICE LIQUOR RAIDS

Two raids by members of the police headquarters liquor squad resulted in the seizure of more than 20 gallons of liquor and the arrest of two men and a woman on charges of keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Later in the day the same officers arrested a man on a charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale in an automobile on Shawmut ave. South End.

PRIEST FORBIDS LIPSTICK USE

Baltimore, May 15 — Girls who come to the altar rail with painted lips will be denied communion by the Rev. James F. Hickey, professor of philosophy at St. Mary's Seminary.

This statement was made by Dr. Hickey, preaching at St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church. He said he made this statement for himself only, that it did not represent the view of any other priest.

"The church imposes a certain degree of external propriety," Dr. Hickey said, in explaining his statement, and he considers the use of paint or lipstick violates that propriety. He added that he is not concerned with whether or not the girls use lipstick or paint outside the church, but that he does not care to have the communion host come in contact with paint.

SEAMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM YARD ARM

Newport, R. I., May 15—Raymond Ernest Munson of Bridgeport, Conn., a seaman first class, attached to the Newport Naval Training Station, was killed when he fell from the second yard arm of the U. S. S. Constellation.

Munson, who had just completed his training period and was scheduled to go to sea within a few days, was painting the yard arm. He stepped on a rope that he believed to be secured and fell into the water, striking the first yard arm as he fell.

BARBARA MERRIMAN ENROLLS TO AID TRY-OUT THEATER, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

New York Girl Later Is Going Abroad for Protracted Stay

THOSE WHO ARE WISHING the best of good fortune for the Try-Out Theater in Wellesley may rejoice in plenty at the presence in the company of Miss Barbara Merriman. Slender and tall and flashing-eyed; ornamental as can be for stage or ballroom, is this daughter of society and plutocracy who long since renounced the baubles of fashionable butterfly life to go in seriously and intensely for a career behind the footlights.

HER PARENTS ARE THE E. BRUCE MERRIMANS, socially consequential in Gotham as well as in Providence and Boston, and there is another daughter quite as good to look upon, Miss Emelie Merriman. I believe Miss Barbara Merriman's stage path has taken her to local boards, the justly popular Copley Theater. And now at the Try-Out in Wellesley she will shine brightly in the galaxy of young people devoted to the enterprise, the stars-to-be, the directors and the authors.

FUTURE PLANS OF THIS SOCIETY - girl - turned - actress have a serious purpose underlying. In the autumn there is talk of her sailing abroad for a long residence, in London and Paris and other cultural centers. So Miss Merriman's appearance in Wellesley will needs be a sort of compensation to her friends for this protracted absence on foreign shores. Miss Barbara Boyd, a charming young Englishwoman, gently born and greatly gifted, is another recruit to the Try-Out banner, about to flaunt in the breeze at the Wiswall estate, during three weeks of drama, and five Sundays of musicales.

ALL IS ENERGETIC AS THE busiest of well governed bee hives at the Try-Out these days. Miss Katharine Warren and Leighton Rollins are continuously at hand with rehearsals and directing and such, and Miss Josephine Stranahan, completing the directorial trio, is ready for business after a week-end in Bennington, Vt., in attendance on a bride. Miss Sally Davis became Mrs. Quintard Leake, with Miss Stranahan as a bridesmaid, on Saturday last, and now with that ceremonial duty accomplished, Miss Stranahan plunges into the theatrical work.

Miss Josephine Stranahan, of Wellesley and New York, one of the directing trio of the Try-Out Theater in Wellesley. She was recently bridesmaid at the wedding of Mrs. Quintard Leake (Sally Davis) at Bennington, Vt.

THE TRY-OUT THEATER PLAN is nothing if not all comprehensive. A directing trio with vision ordains that catering to the inner man shall go along with serving up a feast for his soul. So a refectory is most conveniently set up, and Madame may bring guests for tea, for dinner before the play or supper afterwards. And since the theater is essentially out in the country, audiences will find this innovation much to be applauded. The refectory, perfectly and picturesquely appointed, functions during the entire season, from May 20, and its musicales, to the final night of the three weeks of tryout.

TODAY THOSE WHO LOVE TO delve in the garden and like nothing so much as giving the swaying larkspur or the lowly tomato personal care and attention may buy all sorts of garden equipment and plants from the Farm and Garden Shop, at the Brookline home of Mrs. Frederic C. Hood, who loans her place at No. 77 Warren st. for the sale. To your true garden lover the scent of newly turned earth is like the trumpet to an old war horse, a clarion call not to be resisted. The planting season is now on.

ALL SORTS OF THINGS TO put in your garden, and fetching smocks like flowers themselves, to be worn while doing the planting; contrivances to hold the weeds and frames for flowers; in fact, everything ingenuity can devise may be purchased. Tea will be a relaxation of the late afternoon hours. And the usual Farm and Garden galaxy is in attendance: Mesdames Colt, Frazer, Crocker, Clark, Mead, Webster, Nash, Cotting, Reser, Copeland, Baker, Dane, Wright, Adams, et cetera.

MAJ. DAVIDSON MAY FLY BACK TO CAPITAL TODAY

Announcement was made at the airport today that Maj. Howard C. Davidson, army Air Corps pilot, will probably take off for Washington today, without waiting for Lt. Muir H. Fairchild, Bremen salvage flier ill at St. John, N. B. Maj. Davidson flew to Boston with Lt. Quesada, Fairchild's substitute, who was taken north by Lt. Richard Cobb. It was planned that Lt. Cobb would fly back to Boston with Lt. Fairchild, who would then be taken on to Washington by Maj. Davidson. Reports from St. John today said that Lt. Fairchild, who is suffering from appendicitis, was too ill to be transported.

AUTO OF REVERE CITY PAYMASTER BURNED

Flre destroyed an automobile owned by Daniel Abeodn, city paymaster, and stored in a six-car garage in Hyde st., Revere, today. The garage is located in the rear of the Revere police station. Patrolman James McCristal discovered the flames, and with three of his companions wheeled the vehicle from the building. The wooden doors of the garage were burned.

18 OF FACULTY QUIT COLLEGE

New London, Ct., May 15 (AP)—The quietude of Connecticut College for Women, disturbed recently by blushes between President Benjamin T. Marshall and the English department, which ended with the former's resignation, was again disturbed today when it became known 18 members of the faculty resigned. Practically every department is represented in the resignations.

It also became known that parents of students have organized to co-operate in furthering the interests of the college and that their first action was to adopt a resolution reaffirming confidence "in the wise administration of President Marshall, our unwavering love and esteem for him, and our deep regret that circumstances have compelled him to resign."

The trouble at the college was between the president and the faculty of the English department. When Marshall's resignation was accepted by the trustees the resignation of Prof. John Edwin Wells of the English department was requested.

6 HARVARD MEN IN RAID FINED

Six Harvard students, arrested in a raid on a Harvard st., Cambridge, apartment, in which five girls were also taken into custody, in East Cambridge Court today pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and were fined $10 each.

The cases of three other students, arrested in the same raid, were placed on file when it was testified they had merely dropped into the apartment to make a call.

The six who were fined were George A. Edson, 20; John E. Blair, Jr., 20; Willard Reed, Jr., 21; A. Roger Maynard, 20; Paul F. Lindquist, 20, and Manley Fleischmann, 19, all of West Morely Hall. The other three were Joshua Sends, Jr., 21, West Morely Hall; John I. Strong, 23, Straus Hall, and George I. Perry, Jr., 21, Stoughton Hall. The cases of the girls will be heard later.

Let Future Take Care of Itself—Rosenwald

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—Julius Rosenwald, millionaire philanthropist, believes future generations should provide their own philanthropies. He so expressed himself in explaining his request that the Julius Rosenwald fund, which now exceeds $20,000,000, be fully expended within 25 years after his death.

Rosenwald made an additional gift of $2,000,000 to the fund, turning over to it 20,000 shares of Sears-Roebuck stock of par $100.

"Times are changing so rapidly that it is impossible for us to predict needs of future generations," Rosenwald said.

"I realize that my stipulation is contrary to current practice, but I believe that the greatest good can come through the use of the entire sum, both principal and interest, by the present generation."

Mr. Rosenwald's philanthropies are so extensive that even he was unable, when asked, to approximate the total amount.

$15,000 BLAZE IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., May 15—Granite square, the heart of the business section of the west side, was threatened by a fire which swept through a three-story business and tenement block, causing a loss placed at $15,000.

The fire, the cause of which is not known, started on the third floor of a block owned by Louis N. Nightingale.

A department store on the first floor was damaged by smoke and water. The fire caused the heaviest loss on the second and third floors.

PLACARDS POINT TO "AIRMAIL WEEK"

Postmaster Baker, by way of calling attention to the fact that this is "air-mail week" as designated by the authorities in Washington, has placed big placards on all mail trucks and smaller ones are being nailed up in all postoffices throughout the Boston postal district.

The load which left for New York was a little heavier than the last few days, it was said, although it has been in the vicinity of 80 pounds each day. The number of large packages is increasing, postal men say.

HUNT $100,000 GEMS OF BAY STATE WOMAN

New York, May 15 (AP)—Jewelry valued at $$48,000 today was the basis of two police searches and two court actions.

Police of Nassau County were attempting to track down the thief or thieves who stole $25,000 in gems from the Oyster Bay, L. I., home of Sir Ashley Sparks, resident director of the Cunard line, while police of New York were searching for the taxicab in which Mrs. Alfred H. Chapin of Springfield, Mass., left an overnight bag containing $100,000 in jewelry.

The Sparks robbery occurred some time Sunday night, the jewelry being taken from the room of Lady Sparks while the family was at dinner on the floor below.

The jewelry stolen consisted of two diamond rings, two diamond brooches, two wrist watches set with diamonds and three small gold bar pins. The burglars apparently were experts in jewelry, leaving several less valuable pieces in the jewelry boxes.

Mrs. Chapin, mother of Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., noted tennis player, left a bag containing $100,000 in jewelry in a taxicab that had taken her from the Grand Central station to her hotel. The cab had disappeared before she noticed her loss.

The missing jewels include a platinum bracelet set with diamonds, platinum lorgnette with a diamond chain, sapphires and emeralds; a string of pearls and other pieces.

In the two court cases, the $$7,000 in gems stolen from Mrs. James P. Donohue, Woolworth heiress, and later returned, is the basis of a criminal action against Noel C. Scaffa, a private detective, while in the other Edmund Frisch, Fifth ave. jeweler, is attempting to force the return of $30,000 in jewelry sold to Mrs. and Mr. J. Clark Dulany.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION WARNS OF CONTRIBUTIONS

A warning was sent out by P. Harry Graves, secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union, against contributing to agents who are now seeking funds for the New Bedford strikers. These collectors are now at work about Greater Boston and Secretary Graves urges all unions to see with the strikers to contribute to only such persons who can show credentials signed by the Boston Central Labor Union. Those who desire to contribute to the aid of the strikers and who are reluctant to contribute otherwise, may send their contributions to the headquarters of the C. L. U., Wells Memorial Building, Washington street, where they will be properly handled by the treasurer.

DEMOCRATS IN VT. MEET

Burlington, Vt., May 15—Nearly 1000 delegates to the State Democratic convention convened here today in Memorial Auditorium. The keynote speaker was Representative William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, Mass. James W. Gerard of New York, former Ambassador to Germany, also was expected to be on hand and to speak.

Eight delegates and eight alternates to the national convention at Houston, Texas, are to be chosen. It is expected the Vermont delegation will be solidly behind Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

MAINE MAN JUST OUT OF JAIL NABBED AGAIN

When Albert E. Rollins, 36, of Auburn, Me., ended a short stay at Deer Island where he had been serving a sentence for a statutory offence, Inspector Warren Liese of police headquarters placed him under arrest for forging checks to the amount of $300 in his home city. Liese discovered that Rollins was wanted in Auburn while studying his fingerprints.

Hope to Girdle Globe in 21 Days Via Sea and Air

New York, May 15 (INS)—Attempting a new speed record for a trip around the world, John Henry Mears, theatrical producer, and Charles B. D. Collyer, stunt flier of Richmond, Va., will leave here June 9 to circle the globe by airplane and ship. They hope to be back in New York after their 29,000-mile journey in 21 days.

Mears held the former record for a round-the-world trip, having completely circled the earth in 35 days in 1913. This mark stood for 13 years, the Evan-Wells expedition making the trip in 35 days in 1926.

Mears and Collyer propose to hop off from here at daybreak, the morning of June 9, in their "folding plane," the City of New York. They expect to catch the liner Ile de France 200 miles at sea and complete the transatlantic journey on that ship.

After flying across Europe, Russia and the Orient, their schedule places them in Tokio in time to catch the Empress of Canada for Victoria, B. C., where they would take to the air again in the last series of flights to New York.

ECUADOR BUILDINGS DAMAGED IN QUAKE

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 15—Several buildings were damaged by a strong earthshock felt here. The people ran from their houses and workshops in terror. The tremor lasted about 90 seconds.

The streets are littered in parts of the city with cornices and other portions of structures jarred loose by the quake.

RULES STATES CANNOT TAX ROYALTY PATENTS

Washington, May 15—The right of states to tax incomes derived from royalties on patents was denied by the Supreme Court in a five to four decision.

The case was brought by the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations and taxation. Taxes assessed against George J. Rockwood of Worcester were declared invalid.

HUGE MORPHINE STOCK, 3 MEN SEIZED IN HUB

In a raid on a house in Prince st., North End, today, federal narcotic agents seized 20,000 grains of morphine, one of the largest seizures here in years, and arrested three men.

Those taken into custody, to be arraigned before U. S. Comr. E. C. Jenney, are Vincenzo Piccinni, Joseph Belmonte and Guiseppe Roma. The raid followed four months of investigation, resulting from information from Rockland, Me., and, according to William D. Allen, in charge of the local narcotic division, breaks up a heavy drug traffic between Maine and Massachusetts.

The agents were transported to Prince st. in a covered truck, which was parked at the curb until an informer made a "buy," after which they entered the house, finding the three men on the second floor. The drugs in cans were discovered in the furnace in the basement.

HOOVER CHALLENGED TO DEBATE SOCIALIST FOE

New Bedford, May 15—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, challenged Herbert Hoover to come to New Bedford and demonstrate how a country without an undernourished child is compatible with a city where a ten per cent wage cut has just led to a strike of 30,000 textile operatives. Thomas, addressing a crowd of 3000 at an open-air meeting sponsored by the New Bedford Textile Council, quoted Hoover as stating that it is "our business to create a country where no child suffers from undernourishment."

Thomas was here as chairman of the emergency committee for striking relief of New York, which is appropriating relief money from his organization.

HOUSE ADOPTS HAUGEN BILL REPORT

Washington, May 15—The conferees' report on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, carrying the equalization fee provision, was adopted by the House. It was sent to the Senate for approval and from there will go to the White House.

As the measure now stands, with features regarded by President Coolidge as objectionable, it is believed the bill will be vetoed.

"LITTLE SINS" By KATHARINE BRUSH

A Story of Gay Life at Harvard

Gay Leonard, young, beautiful spoiled darling of fortune, is loved by Alan Pomeroy, an athletic, worthwhile young man. She is fascinated by Jerry Davis, of questionable reputation, and has been forbidden by her family to see him. Jerry meets Dolly Quinn, a shop girl by day and cabaret hostess in the evening. Gay calls him up, tells her inquisitive mother it is Alan she has been talking to and is going to meet him. Later Alan calls up and Mrs. Leonard learns that Gay has gone to Jerry's rooms and in a panic phones her husband. Gay finds another girl and a man with Jerry. The man relates Jerry's meeting with Dolly Quinn. After a good many drinks Jerry crushes Gay to him. She rallies him about the dance hall girl and he admits he has never even tried to kiss her. Gay's father tells Jerry what he thinks of him and the family takes Gay South. Dolly, through Jerry's good offices, gets a job as theater usher. She starts to save $200 and refuses to take a penny from Jerry. Dolly makes a friend of Nick Standish, a reporter. Jerry asks Dolly if she is going to marry Dick. She reassures him and tells him she has been chosen as one of five girls to enter a beauty contest in Atlantic City. He confesses he loves her—but she tells him she does not care for him in that way. Gay, back after an eight months' absence, accepts an invitation to a house party near Atlantic City.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 14.

THE Labor Day house party "thrown" by Ted and Irene Matthews, those inveterate throwers of parties of all kinds, assembled the Friday before Labor Day. It assembled, to be precise, all Friday long. Quite early in the morning the Matthews' car dispatched to the station for its first guests, returned full of luggage, and the truck dispatched with it for the luggage returned full of guests—a transportation typical of the spirit of the affair.

Quite late in the afternoon the last pair of motorists appeared, having been arrested for speeding. And in the interim car after car, sedan after roadster after limousine, halted under the porte-cochere and dumped jaunty gentlemen and silken scented girls on to the wide veranda.

It was a busy day for Mrs. Matthews' maids, who toiled upstairs with suitcases, unpacked, pressed gowns, ran errand. It was a busy day for Mrs. Matthews' chef, who prepared luncheon for nine and dinner for 22.

It was a busy day for Mrs. Matthews' husband, who, aided by the butler, mixed many rounds of tan and yellow drinks. But for Mrs. Matthews it was not a busy day. No day was. A more casual lady, a more irresponsible hostess, never lived.

When the vanguard of the visitors swarmed into her home she was nowhere in sight. "I'm not up!" her blithe voice informed them from the hidden head of the stairs. "Isn't that scandalous? But I'll get up—since it's you."

When Gay Leonard and Alan Pomeroy arrived by motor about 2, they passed her a block from her own street, going rapidly the other way in Benny Henley's racing car. She blew them a kiss and was back in an hour, unabashed and unapologetic.

She met no guests at the door unless she chanced to be near it as they entered, but no guests, knowing Irene, expected her to. They went cheerfully around looking for her, and if necessary shouting for her, and when they found her, were compensated, because she was so palpably glad to see them.

Having disposed of the amenities, each guest proceeded at once, straight as a homing bird, to the bar in the basement. There he or she drank and was toasted, amid the loudest acclaim—a custom hard on the earlier arrivals, some of whom, having downed one highball in honor of every person who came after, found themselves rather full of highballs by half past six o'clock.

At seven the migration to upper regions to dress for dinner began. Girls went up by twos and threes, prattling in the voluble yet somehow detached fashion of girls when they have men on their minds. Men sauntered up in a leisurely way a little later, blowing great clouds of smoke.

Doors opened and banged. Water buzzed remotely into bathtubs. Damsels caught traversing hallways in negligees uttered squeaks of synthetic modesty and fled.

Boys unable to locate the rooms assigned to them roamed to and fro, beating upon all doors and retorting impudently to the cries thus elicited from within. A dozen different voices paged the hostess: "Rene! Oh, Rene! Lend me your curling iron? I forgot mine and my ends are all straight. . . ." "Say old thing, sorry to bother you, but where'd my suitcase go to, d'you know?" . . . "Can one of the maids help me a minute, honey?" . . . "Irene? Station LOST, Windy Grant announcing. Have I a berth hereabouts, or did I just dream I was invited?"

By seven-thirty everyone was upstairs and in place and comparatively quiet. Then for half an hour or more nothing was to be seen of the house party, nothing was to be heard but the soft purr or the rough resonance of voices, muffled by the closed white doors.

"Starting off all right," Irene remarked.

He sounded somewhat strangled and Irene, lipstick in hand, glanced back at him over one round bare

WOMAN WINS BITTER ONSET POLITICAL WAR

QUICK RESULTS WON BY MULLOWNEY ACTION

Dr. P. H. Mullowney

Director Hearst Health Laboratory

Today's warning to the readers of this column is that they should not patronize stores that are unclean; where candy and other foodstuffs are not fully protected from possible contamination by dust, dirt, flies or any deleterious matter. This warning is also meant to include stores that handle their products in a careless, unsanitary manner.

Dr. Mullowney

If you have occasion to run across such places, write or communicate with Dr. Mullowney, director of the Hearst Health Laboratory, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, and prompt corrective action will be undertaken. As an example of how such a letter may accomplish beneficial results, the following communication is selected for publication:

Boston, Mass., May 9, 1928.
Hearst Health Laboratory,

Boston, Mass.
Dear Sir—

For many weeks I have wanted to notify the Board of Health of the candy which is being sold at the —— store on Washington st. Large quantities of chocolate fudge is being sold, which is entirely uncovered, and I personally have seen people sneeze and cough over it; there is also dust on this candy. At another counter chocolates are exposed and at another counter fig bars are not covered. The girls handle the money, make change, then handle the candy, which is left entirely uncovered day after day.

I rejoice that you have started your clean-up campaign before hot weather is here. God

FAITHLESS

No, Marion knew that Bert would never be untrue to her. She knew, too, that he was not deliberately harsh, unkind. But, oh—he was so irritable!

It was his physical condition, of course. Yet she hesitated about what to do. "Laxative foods" had done little good—other laxatives she distrusted. Harsh—habit-forming—the remedy seemed almost as bad as the disease!

Feen-a-mint is different!

It is just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Begin today to correct constipation this modern scientific way.

Lita and Roy Always Seen in Company

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, May 15—Matt Moore is going to work. I am glad and I believe there are scores of fans throughout the country who will also approve.

The youngest of the Moore brothers hasn't been in a picture for [illegible] and we have missed his smiling [illegible] countenance. Now he has been signed to play chief male attraction in "Lawful Blondes" by Harvey Thew and George Hill.

The [illegible] is yet to be selected by Harry Cohn who is making this [illegible] Roy D'Arcy, prospective bridegroom of Lita Grey Chaplin, plays an important role. George Seitz directs.

To return to the D'Arcy-Chaplin romance. It seems to be flourishing like the well known Green Bay tree. Everywhere Roy goes, Lita is sure to be. Neither of them can marry for some months, but unless there is a cooling of affection when the two divorce decrees are final, it will greatly surprise Hollywood if there isn't a marriage.

HARRY LANGDON is a good example of what happens to some [illegible] players who try to do everything [illegible]. When he was with Mack Sennett his comedies were the talk of the country. Then he went to First National, [illegible] What happened? [illegible] Langdon is out. Charlie Murray [illegible] into the hands of First National [illegible] Langdon on First National's program. Three pictures have already been chosen for him. "The Sport of Kings," Ian Hay [illegible] play, "Wine, Women and Song," an original, and [illegible] Eddie Cline is slated to direct.

THERE were whispers in Hollywood at the time young Arthur Lake was cast in "Home of Hollywood" that it was [illegible] Robert Welch, right hand man of Carl Laemmle, [illegible] that young Lake was going Hollywood and be[illegible] temperamental. He [illegible] a series of one reel comedies [illegible] take all idea of being a [illegible] I can't see why it should, for if "Home of Hollywood" turns out a big success young Lake's career hasn't been interfered with in the least. MOTION picture teams are made by the public. They are also dissolved by that same autocratic [illegible] Patsy Ruth Miller and Glen Tryon made three joint appearances. Exhibitors all over the country sent word for more Miller-Tryon comedies. Universal acting upon that suggestion, has now cast Patsy Ruth Miller and Glen Tryon in "Leave It to Me." T. Roy Barnes is also in the cast and William J. Craft will direct.

LOUISE FAZENDA has the grandest scream of anyone in the movies. She screamed all through "The Bat" only it was a silent yell. Now she is going to scream through "Terror" for Vitaphone and you will get the full effect. That is what these "talkies" do for our peaceful and silent drama. May McAvoy and Holmes Herbert play the leads in this thriller which will be directed and Vitaphoned by Roy Del Ruth. Matthew Betz and Joseph Gerard are also in the cast.

LUPE VELEZ has the primitive instincts of a child. No one need ever ask what she thinks. She shows her feeling without fear of man or beast. At the opening of "Drums of Love" the crowds standing on the sidewalk waiting in front of the theatre called and said "Dolores Del Rio, Dolores Del Rio." Putting her head out of the car window she cried, "No, No, No. Me, Lupe." Report has it that she made a face with those words.

THE cadets at Culver Military Academy will probably be writing home to the folks just how movies are made. "Prep and Pep," a Fox comedy drama, is to be filmed in Culver, Indiana. Nancy Drexel, David Rawlins and David Butler are leaving within the next few days, David Butler to direct, and the other two to act.

HUB AMATEURS AT ORPHEUM

Boston amateurs have the stage at Loew's Orpheum this week in Victor Hyde's annual production of the Orpheum Frolic, presented by almost 75 of Boston's youthful stage stars.

With a running time of slightly less than an hour, the show starts off with a bang and sustains that tempo until the final curtain.

The chorus has been exceedingly well trained, and the settings, costumes and lighting effects are excellent.

Besides the elaborate ensemble numbers and numerous specialties, there has been added to this year's edition of the Frolic a stage jazz band which fits into the revue perfectly.

Other vaudeville acts include Buck and Bubbles, a pair of clever colored entertainers, Margie Conte, a pleasing singer, and the Aerial Smiths.

On the screen is shown Corinne Griffith in a sparkling comedy-drama, "The Garden of Eden." Charles Ray, Louise Dresser, Lowell Sherman and Maude George assist.

EVA LE GALLIENNE IN BOSTON NEXT WEEK

Eva Le Gallienne and the Civic Repertory Theater of New York is due to arrive at the Hollis for the annual two weeks of repertory in Boston, beginning next Monday.

Four of the outstanding plays of the New York season will be offered.

The opening attraction is "The Good Hope." Following are Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," "La Locandiera," and "The Cradle Song."

The company is essentially the same as appeared at the Hollis last year.

2 FREE TICKETS FOR BIRTHDAY WRITERS

Three more days, and the birthday letter-writing feature for boys and girls under 16 years of age will be closed. No letters mailed after Friday will be considered.

This should give plenty of time, however, for last-minute writers to get their letters into the mails. Remember, for this closing week of the contest TWO tickets to Loew's State Theater as guests of the Boston Evening American, will be awarded to each lucky writer.

Simply write a short letter telling why you are glad your birthday happens to fall on the date it does, and mail it along to the Birthday Editor as soon as you can.

Only those boys and girls who have not yet passed their 16th birthday are eligible. In addition to the theater tickets an attractive card of greetings will be sent to each writer.

Address, Birthday Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston.

SPLENDID REVUE IS B. F. KEITH TOPLINER

Hilarious Ken Murray leads a handsome, jolly and vivacious group of entertainers at B. F. Keith's this week.

The piece-de-resistance is Harry Carroll's New American Revue, featuring Ken Murray, the California Collegians, Miss Ann Greenway, soprano, and the beauteous "Gym Girls."

The world famous comedienne, Miss Ada Reeve, scored with songs and recitations. In their own specialty act, the California Collegians proved one of the best dressed and most versatile acts of the vaudeville stage this season.

Four U. S. Girls Win in British Golf

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"WELCOME, Colonel! I'm glad to see you back in the pro boxing game. I hope you will be able to still find a little time for golf after you complete making matches for the Arena A. C."

Mr. Boston's greeting is extended to Col. Bob McKirdy, former matchmaker of the Commercial A. C., who has cast his lot with the Arena A. C. The colonel has signed Ernie Schaaf and Big Boy Peterson for his opening show on May 25.

"The colonel is a master when it comes to matching local boxers," resumed Mr. Boston. "He developed boys like Young Muggsy, Nate Siegal, Paddy Flynn, Eddie Shevlin, Pat McCarthy, Freddy Duffy, Paul Doyle and other star performers when the Commercial Club was staging shows in Bowdoin sq.

"The old Commercial Club was what the boys like to call a gold mine. As a result of the colonel's fine matchmaking, crowded houses attended his shows week after week. It is said that the colonel cleaned up a young fortune while operating in Bowdoin sq., but if he did he has put it back into circulation by purchasing golf balls. I happened to be with the colonel one afternoon at the Waltham Country Club when he dropped no less than 13 perfectly good golf balls into one of those pleasant water holes.

"Here is wishing the colonel success in his new fistic venture."

BILL KENNEY, president of the New England A. A. U., has tipped Mr. Boston that he is planning to stage an inter-city boxing show to help raise money for the Olympic Fund.

"I am sure Bill will put on a star show," said Mr. Boston. "He had charge of the recent national boxing championships. He made a decided hit with the dear old cash customers when he staged an extra night of boxing and admitted ticket holders free.

"Kenney likes sport for sport's sake. It is his type who are responsible for the success of athletics in America. I asked Bill recently whom he thought would win the Olympic games this year.

"'The United States,' he answered. 'We will win by picking up points for second and third places. I look for Finland and Germany to give us the most trouble. Great Britain should also make a good showing, but cannot hope to win, as it is weak in possible second and third place winners.'"

MR. BOSTON told the gang he was going to go out to the ball game this afternoon.

"The Red Sox have rekindled the old baseball spirit in me," said the veteran. "I don't like to say 'I told you so' or anything like that, but I respectfully call attention to the fact the Red Sox are winning ball games.

"Bill Carrigan's outfit is going somewhere in the American League flag fight. Make no mistake of that.

"Ed Morris, youthful pitching sensation, is going to be one of the powerful factors in the upward climb of the red hosed warriors. Victories over the Athletics, White Sox and Browns prove that Morris is not a flash in the pan. He has the goods, and with a veteran like Carrigan to school him in the tricks of the game, Big Ed is going some place.

"Bob Quinn has had pretty tough sledding since he first came to Boston. He has gone about the task at hand like a regular baseball man and it appears as though he is at last getting results.

"While it is Babe Ruth's duty to try to knock the Red Sox off when possible, I'll bet a brand new summer lid that he is secretly rejoicing over the success of the Carrigans. The Babe gives Carrigan credit for much of his baseball success.

"After Miller Huggins had won a couple of world's championships with his Yankees, Ruth was asked who was the greatest baseball manager in the world.

"'Bill Carrigan,' was his quick reply.

"All aboard for Fenway Park. So long gang."

Greenfield Picked to Chase Braves Jinx

St. Louis, Mo., May 14—The spring flop of the Boston Braves is one of the biggest surprises in the National League race this season.

With the addition of Rogers Hornsby, Lester Bell and others, the Braves were expected to furnish a stiff challenge for at least the top of the second division but so far they have been able to keep ahead of only the misfit Phillies.

The initial western invasion has netted but two victories—one in Pittsburgh and one here against the Cardinals.

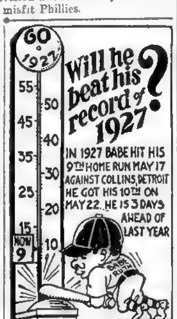
However, Slattery will continue firing away. He probably will use Kent Greenfield on the hill against the Cardinals this afternoon. With the exception of Ed Brandt's blow-up in the first inning last Saturday, the Braves' pitching has been entirely satisfactory.

They could use a solid swat in the pinch as was illustrated when they were beat out in the ninth.

In the fourth inning the Braves had runners on first and second with one out when Richbourg hit into a double play. In the fifth Moore was on third with Hornsby on first and none out but Brown popped to Frisch and Lester Bell bounded into an easy double play.

Robertson's defeat in the ninth inning was a tough one. Art Delaney covered eight frames but with the Cardinals scoring aces in the seventh and eighth Slattery shifted to Robertson for the finals.

Roettger and Douthit made infield singles and High sacrificed. Frisch was purposely passed and it looked as if Robertson had won the battle when Bottomley popped to Taylor but Hafey's line single to left won the game for the Cardinals.



RECORD CROWDS SEE GIANTS AND CUBS CLASH

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—When Giants and Cubs clash, attendance records at Wrigley Field go to smash.

Eighty-eight thousand fans watched the first three games of the series between the two traditional rivals, creating a new three-day record for the field.

Forty-eight thousand spectators were in attendance at Sunday's games, while Saturday and yesterday's contests were attended by 20,000 each.

Tex and Fugazy Fight for Loughran

New York, May 15 (INS)—Promoters Tex Rickard and Humbert Fugazy were to present their claims for the ring services of Tommy Loughran before the New York Boxing Commission today. The light heavyweight champion has signed to meet Pete Latzo on May 30 and Leo Lomski on June 13 under Fugazy's auspices, but Rickard has an option giving him exclusive rights to Loughran's services until November 1.

GLENNA IS VICTOR, 4 AND 2

Mrs. Hurd, Mrs. Hanley and Miss Curtis Other American Winners at Hunstanton

Hunstanton, Eng., May 15 (AP)—Led by Miss Glenna Collett, who won her third victory of the British women's golf championship, all the Americans in the title event today stroked their way into the fourth round, which will be played tomorrow.

Miss Collett won her third match while her three compatriots had to play only two to enter the fourth round.

Miss Collett continued to kill off champions and former champions by defeating Mrs. Temple Dobell, 4 up and 2 to play. Mrs. Dobell, the former Gladys Ravenscroft, has won both the British and American titles.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former British and American champion, won from Miss Diana Esmond, a French girl, 6 and 5.

HARDEST FIGHT.

Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Clinton, Iowa, had the hardest fight of the American quartet, disposing of Miss Couper, a Scotch player, one up.

Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, defeated Miss Alice Firebrace, of England, 2 and 1.

Steadier on the greens than at the start of yesterday's match, Miss Collett, America's hope in the championship, halved the first two holes of her third round match with Mrs. Dobell, both taking fours on each hole.

American friends anxiously awaited Miss Collett's first putt near the cup, one of those five footers so easily missed, to see whether she was shaky on the greens, but she stepped up confidently and sent the ball down.

Miss Collett won the third hole with a four to her rival's five, making her one up. She chipped from 40 yards away, laying the ball a yard from the hole. Mrs. Dobell chipping from 12 yards, overran the hole and missed her putt, while Miss Collett sank hers.

They halved the short fourth hole in threes.

Miss Collett holed a difficult chip shot for a birdie 3 from 45 feet on the fifth hole, going 2 up.

The sixth hole was halved in 4. Miss Collett was playing wonderful golf and was 2 under 4s at this point.

MRS. DOBELL MISSES

Mrs. Dobell missed a chance to win the short seventh hole when Miss Collett's tee shot overran the green and lodged in a bunker. She took two shots to get out and sank a putt of a yard. Her English rival also went to the bunker, but was out in one and missed a putt of a yard. Both got fives, halving the hole.

Miss Collett went 3 up on the eighth, playing the hole perfectly. Mrs. Dobell topped her drive, was short with her second, chipped, putted and picked up with the American's ball four feet from the cup.

The ninth was halved in sixes, Miss Collett turning 3 up.

Mrs. Dobell won her first hole at the tenth, chipping dead from the edge of the bunker and going down in a 4, while the best that the American girl could do was to get a five. The 11th was halved in sixes.

Miss Collett, however, came back on the 12th to capture another hole with a 4 to her opponent's 5, again leaving her 3 up.

The 13th hole was halved in 5's, but the American girl then captured the 14th, making her dormie four.

Shotput Record Will Not Stand

Eugene, Ore., May 15 (AP)—The world's intercollegiate shotput record claimed for Herm Brix, University of Washington weight star, after the dual track and field meet between Washington and Oregon here last Saturday, will not stand because the weight of the shot with which the reputed record was made was a full half-pound less than the regulation 16 pounds.

Brix hurled the shot 50 feet 9¼ inches, a mark which bettered the old record set by Bud Houser of Stanford by two inches.

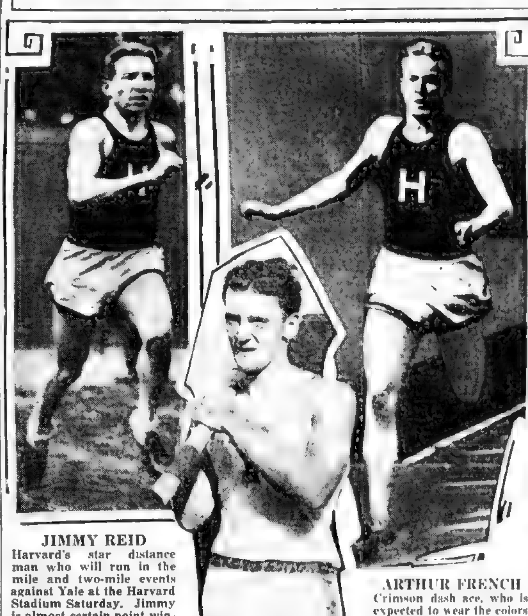
STARS IN H-Y TRACK CLASSIC



JIMMY REID
Harvard's star distance man who will run in the mile and two-mile events against Yale at the Harvard Stadium Saturday. Jimmy is almost certain point winner in the mile run.

ARTHUR FRENCH
Crimson dash ace, who is expected to wear the colors of Harvard to victory in the dashes Saturday.

SABIN CARR
who is one of the best pole vaulters in the world. Carr will win his event for Yale easily unless some unforeseen accident happens as the Crimson has no pole vaulters who can come within a foot of Carr's best mark.

MEDFORD AND EVERETT PLAY

Baseball will hold the center of the local sport stage this week with a whole flock of excellent contests carded. For today the Everett-Medford game at Medford is the big attraction. Everett won four [illegible] games last week and seemed to get stronger with each victory.

Reigh Count Now Heavy Favorite in Kentucky Derby

WISE BETTORS STAND TO CLEAN UP ON COLT

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, May 15—The still, small voice of doubt concerning those 10 to 1, 6 to 1 and even 4 to 1 future bets on Reigh Count's nozzle in the Derby was almost no more this morning.

It had been lulled into a sense of comparative security by the Count's impressive performance in winning the Mammoth Cave purse yesterday under 118 pounds and well restrained in 1:45 2-5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Northeastern's E I C A A championship track team, unbeaten this [illegible] athletes in the New England intercollegiates, at [illegible] Friday. Although strong [illegible] up 62½ points at Worcester [illegible] the Huskies are not expected to do much in the New Englands.

As a dual meet team, the Huskies would give any college in New England a battle, but in the New England [illegible] Martin, Ammur[illegible] State [illegible] are expected to make a bid for honors.

Martin was credited with breaking the E. I. C. A. A. pole vault record in tieing Cool of R. I. State at 11 ft. 8⅝ in., but later cleared three inches higher to capture the gold medal. He will be given credit for a new college record of 11 ft. 11⅝ in.

Morang, against Boston University, cleared 6 ft. ½ in., and must be [illegible] in the New Englands [illegible] romped to a victory in the [illegible] for the second successive [illegible] at Worcester. His time was 51 3-5 seconds.

MASON LOST TO HARVARD CREW

According to present indications the varsity crew will be minus the services of its regular No. 4, [illegible] Mason when it rows against the strong Navy crew and the Pennsylvania eight on Saturday in Philadelphia.

Mason was forced to yield his place in the first varsity two days before the Cornell-Tech-Harvard race last Saturday when a blistered hand turned into an infected hand. Ed [illegible] told him not to engage in [illegible] for a day or so in order [illegible] and plenty of time to [illegible] Harvard will start for [illegible] it does not seem likely that Mason will row in the big race Saturday.

F. Sw[illegible] of New Haven, F. A. S[illegible] of Cleveland, L. J. Rapoport of New Haven and F. M. Rickman of Butler, N. J.; C. R. Hogen of Cleveland, J. C. Hutchinson of Orange, N. J.; W. S. Meaney of Greenwich, Conn., and J. A. Pope of Detroit.

FOUR RECORDS BROKEN IN BROWN DUAL MEET

Providence, May 15—Brown University's track team was an easy victim for Columbia in a dual meet this afternoon, the score standing, 77½ to 57½.

Four new track and field records for the Brown track were made. John Collier, Brown's premier hurdler, set a mark of 25 1-5 seconds in the low hurdles, running against a strong wind, and Jack Kearns of Brockton, hung up a new record in the mile run when he finished 50 yards ahead of Lea of Columbia in 4 minutes 27 seconds.

Joe Hagen of Columbia, I. C. A. A. A. A. indoor champion, established a new Brown track record for the two-mile run when he won easily in 10 minutes 1 second. Anthony Ghilany of Columbia threw the javelin 190 feet 5 inches for a new mark at Brown Field.

LITTLE HOPE FOR EAGLES IN N. E. COLLEGE TILT

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Boston College will enter 24 men in the New England intercollegiates, which will be held at Tech Field on next Friday and Saturday. But [illegible] means little to B. C. for there isn't a sure point winner in the [illegible]

Coach Jack Ryder is picking Holy Cross and Maine to come out on top this season. Ryder expects his team to get about ten or twelve points, but does not see how his outfit can win.

Bart Sullivan's Holy Cross team is very strong with Daley and Quinn in the dashes, Capt. Earl McDonald in the hurdles and high [illegible] Dirkin and Mahar in the [illegible] Brennan in the [illegible] and [illegible] in the two-mile.

The Purple team is also well [illegible] in the field events [illegible] in the javelin, Marks and Sweeney in the weights and Doyle in the broad jump are all athletes on whom Sullivan can rely to pick up points.

MAINE HAS POWER

Frank Kanaly's Maine team is well balanced and will give Holy Cross a good battle. Bowdoin and Bates are also to be considered for the [illegible] prize while Northeastern [illegible] in the running. Bates has a great quartet of half-milers.

Boston College, offhand has but six athletes who may win points, and not one of these is likely to take a first. Dooley will give Mc[illegible] and the rest of the field a good run in the high hurdles and [illegible] also have something to say about the broad jump.

Capt. Rube Daley and Walter Rog[illegible] and Rex Brah and Mac [illegible] in the weights are the other B. C. prospects [illegible] McLaughlin is to be considered [illegible] the top [illegible] while O'Brien [illegible] the two-mile.

Boston College has twice tied for the New England honors, and came out on top in 1921. That was the year when Boston College had but a three-man track team, yet it was good enough to come through on top.

EAGLES JINXED

Jake Driscoll won the 220 and 440. Joe Sullivan came out first in both the hurdles, and Nolan, in the broad jump, added enough to the B. C. total to win the meet. The B. C. has 24 in the meet this season, yet they probably won't get half as many points as the old B. C. track and field trio.

Ryder had another three-man team in the making for this spring but fate stepped in and ruined the whole layout. With Hussey in the dashes, Wilczewski in the weights and hurdles, and Bill Farrell in the high jump, pole vault and javelin B. C. might be in line for their second N. E. title since their advent in 1920. But all three athletes left B. C.

DE MAR, HENIGAN AND RAY IN RACE SATURDAY

New York, May 15 (INS)—Clarence De Mar and the six men who finished directly behind him in the last Boston A. A. marathon are included in the 235 runners who will compete in the New York to Long Beach Marathon next Saturday. Joey Ray is the leading representative of the middle west.

'BUNIONEERS' STILL GOING STRONG

Ashtabula, O., May 15 (INS)—C. C. ("Cross Country") Pyle's 55 pavement pounders tabbed Ohio as another State to their credit as they pushed eastward from here for Erie, Pa., a distance of 45 miles and their 73rd control.

Since leaving Los Angeles, March 4, the survivors of a starting field of 199 have successively crossed California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Andrew Payne, ruddy-cheeked Oklahoma youth, who leads the big parade with an elapsed time of 409 39 10 for the 2895.1 miles, displayed the mettle of leadership Monday by romping to a tie with John Salo, Passaic, N. J., Finnish-American, on the 41.1-mile lap from Arrowhead Beach in 5 50 48. Payne thus retained his lead of 21 49 27 over Salo.

The heel and toe brigade, which has traversed 228 miles in four days, appeared little the worse for the trying ordeal, and even those who are so far behind the leaders that their chances of placing in the ten moneys for the prizes, aggregating $48,500, were dim, felt confident that they would complete the trek to the eastward goal.

Juri Lossman, the Esthionian distance flash who was second to Hannes Kolehmainen in the last Olympic games, is rated as the prize jester of the caravan. Since leaving Oklahoma C[illegible] Lossman has declined to exert himself because of the fact that no daily lap money was offered.

Lossman, 33rd in the standings, clowns along until far after dark nightly. His speed enables him to run forward and back along the line and with his stop watch give the throng a timed pace that will enable them to reach the control before the deadline.

"Not making any money, but having lots of fun," Lossman said when queried as to why he did not increase his speed.

McKNIGHT WINS ELI TENNIS TOURNAMENT

New Haven, May 14—Ed McKnight of Roxbury school today won the Yale interscholastic tennis tournament by defeating H. M. Kennedy of Kent in the final match in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2, 7—5.

Kennedy made a gallant stand in the final set, but McKnight's brilliant and steady play was too much for the Kent school net star, who finally succumbed, 7—5, for set, match and tournament.

McKnight entered the finals by an even harder fight in the semifinals where he was forced to go four sets before he won from A. D. Noble of Newton high. Kennedy reached the finals by a five-set victory over D. Flane of Loomis.

BROWN CAPTAIN AFTER BERTH ON OLYMPIC TEAM

Son of a college professor and an excellent student in his own right, John Collier, Brown University track captain, looms as one of America's brightest hurdling prospects in the Olympic games.

A year ago, he was second in the high hurdles at the intercollegiates.

On May 25 and 26, he will endeavor to improve that position in the fifty-second annual I. C. A. A. A. A. championships at the Harvard Stadium. Monty Wells of Dartmouth, and two Stanford stars, Ross Nichols and Clarence West are other 1927 point scorers who will be starters at the Stadium next week.

John Collier began hurdling when he was a junior in Moses Brown school in Providence and at that time, to use his own words: "I was fortunate enough to have a fine coach named Malcolm Williams, who grounded me thoroughly in the fundamentals."

How he triumphed over obstacles is best gathered from Collier's own lips, for he tells the story in straightforward fashion and interestingly.

"I had always wanted to be a track man," says Collier, "but it was not until the spring of 1924 when I saw the intercollegiates in Cambridge that I decided to specialize in the high hurdles.

After the meet, I climbed down to the track and watched one of the hurdlers practicing.

He was doing a pretty good job over the hurdles and his clearance was close. The next day I went home, but could not get the idea out of my head that I wanted to be a hurdler.

TRAINED AT HOME

"Still remembering how close the fellow in Cambridge had cleared the hurdles, I set to work to get my form down to that degree of perfection. My first try gave me water on the knee, which prevented my doing any work until the following fall.

"My last year in school I worked every day, going slowly over the hurdles until I could get a close clearance."

A week ago Saturday, Collier ran in both hurdles and both sprints in Brown's dual meet with Bowdoin. There was practically no rest between events for the tall Brown leader. Asked how such a slender man could stand the wear and tear of four races in a single meet, Collier replied: "I have taken long hikes for years and have made it a practise to out-walk everybody on my street.

ALWAYS KEEPS FIT

"Keeping training has always been easy for me and I get a real 'kick' out of feeling fit. For the past two summers I have been a counsellor in a camp and have done a great deal of climbing and other work to keep in condition.

I try to develop my back and arm muscles in the summer, and let my legs have a vacation—they usually need it by then."

Collier won the Indoor I. C. 4-A. 70-yard high hurdles title during the past winter and is a great competitor. He is six feet four inches tall, weighs 173 pounds, and is only 26 years of age.

He has great respect for Fred Powers, his coach at Brown for three years, saying of him: "There never was a finer, more considerate and more patient coach. He has taught me the lesson of 'give all you've got, and you're bound to come out all right.'"

There is a lesson that any American with or without athletic tendencies can take to heart.

Collier does not think that Earl Thomson's world record of 14 2-5 seconds will stand forever. "You ask me who has ideal form? I don't know, but Thomson was one of the best. It was the great fighting heart that brought Thomson through in 14 2-5 seconds, and I think some day before long another fellow who is big and strong, and does not know how to give up or 'get licked,' will smash that record."

Address at Yale Not a Publicity Stunt

By GENE TUNNEY
Heavyweight Champion of the World

EVER since the announcement leaked out last fall, that I was to lecture on Shakespeare to the Yale boys, a lot of my friends thought it was just a bit of press agent work, and they had the time of their lives kidding me about it.

As a matter of fact, this talk wasn't supposed to receive any publicity at all, and how the newspaper boys caught onto the fact is still a mystery to Prof. "Billy" Phelps and myself.

Of course it wasn't a publicity stunt. I merely delivered the little discourse because I had promised "Billy" I would, because he's one of my best friends, and because I'm interested in Shakespeare and believe that everyone should read his works.

Since I started in the boxing game, I've been accustomed to appearing before crowds, and have never had an attack of stage fright.

But when I rose to my feet to address all those students and professors, I'm free to confess that I was badly rattled for a few moments.

I couldn't help feeling that, in a certain sense, I stood there as the representative of boxing, that I had undertaken a rather difficult task in attempting an analysis of Shakespeare before such an assemblage, and that I had to convince all these men that I had a real message to give them.

SO, in a flash, I mapped out my entire campaign—just as I've done so often after "feeling out" an opponent for a round or two.

Instead of attempting to deliver a ponderous analytical discourse, I knew they were most interested in my own personal reactions to the Bard of Avon—that is, just how Shakespeare had appealed to a heavyweight boxer.

I was frank in admitting that it took ten readings before I was able to say I thoroughly understood all the hidden meanings in the first Shakespearian play I ever read "A Winter's Tale."

I took the liberty of pointing out a little lesson from this case—that the only way to read Shakespeare is to read it yourself, without the assistance of a teacher or tutor.

Things that you have to dig for I've found, are the best remembered. When you have something dished up for you on a silver platter, it isn't appreciated so much.

The same is just as true of the things we get in life.

It's a fact that I've often wondered if Shakespeare would have been rooting for me to stay down, or get up, in that last bout with Dempsey.

I know one thing about the Bard of Avon—when he "finished" his characters, they certainly stayed "finished."

WELL, anyway, it was one of the most delightful experiences I've ever had in my life—and as you may well imagine, I've had my share of pleasant recollections. The reception that the Yale boys and faculty members gave me after the talk was one that I'll never forget.

I suppose some of the old-timers picked up the newspapers the next day and murmured, more in sorrow than in anger: "What's boxing coming to?"

I suppose it's difficult for these veterans, as well as for certain elements that don't know of the great change that's come over the game, to reconcile themselves to the appearance of a heavyweight champion addressing college students on literature.

To the amazed old-timers I'd simply say that I don't think my little talk will hurt boxing much.

At least, I hope it won't!

Bud Taylor Is to Get $17,500 for Bout With Fuller

CHAMPS TO MEET AT FENWAY PARK JUNE 7

By JACK CONWAY

BUD TAYLOR, world's bantamweight champion, has been signed by Matchmaker Tom Goodwin to battle Sammy Fuller, New England featherweight champion, in a 10-round bout at a Suffolk A. A. show at Fenway Park on Thursday evening, June 7.

Taylor, according to an announcement by Goodwin, will receive a guarantee of $17,500 and the privilege of accepting 30 per cent of the receipts. Fuller, it is understood, will pull down 25 per cent of the receipts and is not getting any guarantee.

Jack Conway

Taylor won the world's bantamweight championship when he defeated Tony Canzoneri, sensational New York boxer. When Canzoneri found Taylor a stumbling block to his march to fame in the bantamweight class, he moved up into the featherweight division where he was crowned after he won from Johnny Dundee and Benny Bass.

It now looks as though Taylor has decided to go after the featherweight title. If he is successful in his clash with Fuller, it is likely he will file a challenge with the New York Athletic Commission to battle Canzoneri.

Taylor, a Terre Haute (Indiana) [illegible] boxers who has not [illegible] McLarnin, who meets Sammy Mandell [illegible] the world's lightweight championship in New York on Thursday night. Taylor has won two decisions over McLarnin, while he lost on a foul in the other engagement.

McLarnin, in a recent interview, says he always wished to even things up with Taylor, but was prevented from doing so when he put on weight.

Fuller has already started training for this match. He will later go to Marlboro where he will establish a training camp.

GOODWIN announces he will stage his boxing shows at Fenway Park this summer on Thursday evenings. This averts a clash with the Argonne A. A., which intends to operate on Monday evenings.

Goodwin found Thursday night a very good one for boxing three years ago when he staged the series of [illegible] with Sammy Mahoney and [illegible] as headliners.

It is Goodwin's plan to stage a show every other week, featuring headliners [illegible], Tiger Sharkey, [illegible] and other boxers of national prominence.

COL. BOB McKIRDY'S decision to swing into action with the Arena A. C. made a hit with boxers and fans. McKirdy has done more than anybody else to develop young fistic men in Boston. His old Commercial A. C. [illegible] was an [illegible] for young fistic slingers.

Bob has Ernie Schaaf, one of the most promising heavyweights in the world, signed to battle Big Boy Peterson at his first show, which will be staged at the Arena on May 2[illegible]. Peterson has beaten Otto Von Porat, Tony Roeback, Johnny Grosso, Wagner and a flock of other sturdy opposition. He will give the youthful Schaaf plenty of opposition.

LARRY GAINES, Canadian heavy-weight [illegible] Mc[illegible] opposes Tom Kirby of Roxbury [illegible] of the 1[illegible]-round bout at the Arena A. A.'s show at Braves Field on next Monday night. Gaines is one of the best boxers developed in Canada in recent years and will probably go to the post a favorite over Kirby.

The other 10-session affair will bring together Arthur [illegible]Flynn of Lawrence and George Monohan of the North End.

HARRY GOLDSTEIN, New England flyweight champion, has been signed by Jim Toland to meet Routier Parra, Chilean flyweight, in a 10-round bout at Mitchel Field, New York, tomorrow night.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Regardless of whether or not Miss Glenna Collett accomplishes her greatest ambition, that of being the first Yankee to bring the British women's open title to America, she has established herself as one of the finest golfers the world has produced. Miss Glenna has been scoring in remarkably low figures for more than six months. She has been free from the worries, which must have retarded her for years, and for the next few seasons should rise to heights never before attained by any of the fair sex.

Miss Katherine Duke, who has only met with one defeat this season, was forced to the last hole by Miss Harriet Brewster yesterday at Oakley. The victory proved to be a double-barreled affair, for along with giving Miss Duke her eighth win, it put the Northern second team across with a 5 to 4 victory.

William E. Gordon did himself proud at the short 4th hole at the Pine Brook Valley Country Club on Sunday, for he holed out a fine mashie shot for an "ace." Holing out from any tee, on any course is a most difficult feat and this is especially true at the 4th at Pine Brook.

The Country Club will be rooting hard for a Northern victory over Central next Thursday at Winchester. Southern ruined whatever chance the Northern District had of catching Central, but The Country Club held on by defeating Midland. If Central falls before Northern at Winchester, The Country Club will be tied for first place, providing of course the Brookline team comes through against Brae Burn.

Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., has rounded into form and will be ready for the contenders for her W. G. A. title next week at Weston. Mrs. Baker had an 87 yesterday at Oakley with four 6s and an 8. She had eight par holes. As one must be a real shotmaster to score well at Weston, Mrs. Baker will have a decided advantage over most of the field.

Joe Stien has done a wonderful job in getting the North Shore Golf and Tennis Club in condition. At no time in the past was the old Salem Golf Club in such prime shape as this season. A. S. Browne, Jr., the owner of the North Shore Golf and Tennis Club, who will return from Europe in about two weeks, will appreciate the improvements.

Billy McPhail, who was victorious in the last Country Club Cup classic, will not play at Clyde Park this week. Billy plans to play in the Massachusetts open at Wollaston next week, and therefore feels that The Country Club event would necessitate too much time from his business.

One of the largest entries that ever turned out for a scribes' tournament was at Pine Brook Valley for the open Newspapermen's G[olf] Association event yesterday. A field of 46 players signed up with Mr. T. B. Forsythe and, although the scores ran high, there were fewer "North Carolinas" than usual.

Tommie Murphy, the well-known Pine Brook Valley Country Club caddy, is going to be at Crawford Notch, N. H., this summer, where he will act as special bag toter for Frank Lally, the professional. Frank Lally will be at Amesbury, Mass., until the latter part of next month, then will depart for Bill Barron's White Mountain course, which, due to recent improvements, is one of the best layouts in the North country.

It would appear as though the Lallys were in control of golf in the White Mountains. Frank is a fixture at Crawford Notch, Joe is at Jackson, and Jim will be back again at Fabyans.

McGeogh to Coach Aggies Grid Team

Amherst, May 15—The Massachusetts athletic authorities announced today the resignation of Robert D. Hobor, who was to have substituted for Head Coach Harold M. "Kid" Gore as coach of varsity football for one year and at the same time confirmed the appointment of Charles R. "Chick" McGeogh to that position.

He will be an instructor in physical education and after the close of the football season will probably coach the hockey and baseball teams of the Stockbridge School of Agriculture.

McGeogh will come to the college tomorrow to assist in the practice session in the afternoon and at night will meet all candidates for next fall's eleven in the [illegible] call.

Joy and Beauty in Daily Bath

By Maria Jeritza,
Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

I CANNOT think of any feature of the beauty quest that is not as enjoyable as it is beneficial. I include, of course, in the phrase "beauty quest," only constructive measures that build up wholesome natural loveliness. Exercise, for instance, is fun for a normally energetic woman.

You can make the daily care of your skin and body more enjoyable by introducing variety. There is more than one good soap, for instance, more than one means of softening bath-water.

The ideal time for a hot bath is at night just before slipping into bed. Then you will sleep with a clean, refreshed body. A quick cool shower or sponge-off in the morning will serve to energize your body and tone your skin, which will be clean from its bath of the night before.

Some women feel, however, that a bath at night keeps them awake. For them, morning may be the only convenient time for the hot cleansing tub, and it should, in that case, be followed by a cool rinse or shower.

With summer approaching, it is more important than ever that the daily warm bath should be antiseptically cleansing, removing every trace of perspiration odor. For this purpose sulphur soap is good, as is another strong y-antiseptic toilet soap. For those who do not like the clean but insistent odor of those soaps, there are various cleansing agents which will answer the same purpose.

A palmful of baking soda scattered into a tub of warm soapsuds will make a bath efficacious for cleansing the pores. So will a heaping tablespoonful of borax or two tablespoonfuls of violet ammonia.

Bath salts of the best quality, perfume and soften water, add luxurious enjoyment to the bath, and tend to remove perspiration odors from the pores. Or if you prefer, after your warm scrub and cool rinse and rubdown, sponge your body with eau de cologne on absorbent cotton or the palms of your hands. The cologne contains alcohol, which cools the body and causes moisture, including perspiration, to evaporate, so it is an especially dainty adjunct to the summer bath. Apply eau de cologne freely under your arms and wherever you are inclined to perspire. Let it dry on your skin.

Another delightful skin tonic for a rub down consists of 95 per cent massage alcohol and witch hazel, in equal parts with a few drops of oil of lavender added.

One woman I know has a different kind of beauty bath for each day of the week. Monday she uses violet ammonia in the tub. Tuesday baking soda. On Wednesday she dusts her body with scented bath powder after it is dry. Thursday she prefers cologne. Friday, jasmine bath salts and rose bath soap, and so on.

Making your beauty program, including your daily hot bath, enjoyable by introducing variety to give it spice and zest. Then you will love it and so derive from it health and refreshed loveliness.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUNG folks in love often worry unnecessarily over difference in [age]. Of course there are great discrepancies in ages which cannot well be bridged, because members of different generations are at entirely different stages of life's journey and necessarily have different interests and viewpoints. But I have known more than one young woman to sacrifice happiness offered her through marriage, merely because of her seniority to the extent of a year or two over the man she loved.

Florence, as she explains in the following letter, is worried because her sweetheart is ten years older than herself, although he is entirely congenial.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," she writes, "I have been going with a young man who is ten years my senior. I care for him and he cares just as much for me.

"He holds rather a responsible position and so do I. He always talks of how he wishes he were married and what he would do if he were married—in other words he builds castles in the air. I know he would make a wonderful husband because he is well fixed financially and is both kind and sympathetic.

"Do you think his being ten years older than I should matter? Do [you] think we would tire of each other because of this difference?

"I am very settled for my age. Every one—even my employer—thinks I am twenty and I am only [illegible]. Do you think if I waited two years I would be able to choose a husband more wisely? Will you please answer this letter through your interesting column?

"FLORENCE."

THE important thing in love and marriage, Florence, dear, is to choose a life partner who is [y]our [thoroug]hly congenial in tastes and views. Of course folks who are not fully grown-up should not marry. You will do well it seems to me to wait until you are 18 before you become engaged. But if at 18 you are sufficiently "settled" to marry a man who wishes to settle down and are still in love with this sweetheart ten years your senior, I do not see why your marriage should not prove happy and successful. Good luck to both of you!

No scrubbing for me and see how my clothes gleam!

I'M all for Rinso, the granulated soap that soaks out dirt! It saves me the hard work of scrubbing and boiling. And it washes the clothes so much whiter.

I think it's just wonderful the way dirt and stains float off in the thick Rinso suds. I notice that even the most soiled cuffs and edges come snowy with almost no rubbing at all. It's like magic!

This "no-work" way is mighty easy on the clothes. Edges don't fray the way they used to. So easy on my hands, too—they don't get red or coarse now.

Rinso is the most economical laundry soap I've ever used. A little of it makes a tubful of creamy, lasting suds. And it's all I need on washday—no bar soaps, chips or powders. Rinso does a marvelous job, all by itself.

Your grocer has Rinso. Ask him for the BIG package.

MRS. L. B. D.

YOU introduce your husband to the lady, not the lady to your husband, dear Mrs. D., for a gentleman is introduced to a lady. And the best way to make this introduction is, "Mrs. Morris, may I introduce (or present) my husband," or if you wish to be more informal and casual this form may be used: "Mr. Morris, m[y] h[usband]." If both have [heard] much of each other, you may use the most informal manner of making this kind of introduction. [illegible]

When two gentlemen are introduced to each other usually the person introducing uses only the names, "Mr. Morris, Mr. Brown." If one is much older than the other or if one is an especially distinguished gentleman, the formal type of introduction may be used: "Mr. Famous, may I present Mr. Westwood?"

DEAR MRS. BLECKMAN:

I am guardian of a group of Camp Fire Girls here. The Boy Scouts of this community have invited the girls to a banquet, a father-and-son banquet. They have asked the girls to [illegible] and I think they expect to [illegible] the girls half of the proceeds. Now I think this is so fine of the boys to ask us, that I am [asking] you to tell us just how we may show our appreciation. Don't you think it would be proper and fitting for one of us to say a few words that night? Is it my place or the place of one of the girls to do this? I am timid and shy and I think too that would rather hear from the girls themselves.

Will you please tell us the right thing to do or the words we can express our grati[tude]?

READER.

I THINK it would be splendid of you to express your appreciation of what the boys have [done]. [illegible] say the few words. You are the person in authority and what you say will carry the weight that will be appreciated.

A few frank words saying that what you have said to me [illegible] as simply and naturally as possible will be just the thing.

And if there are any classes in public speaking [illegible] why not go to one? [illegible] qualities of leadership [illegible] not be a Guardian. [illegible] get you out of shyness or [illegible] more valuable to you than a knowledge of how to say a few well expressed and clever words in public.

A STYLISH CAPE

6143. Capes boast of great popularity this season; they appear in many shapings and forms. As separate garments and as part of coats and dresses in various lengths and outline.

The model here portrayed is distinguished by its simple lines and its serviceable length.

It is embellished by long scarf portions which meet the ends of a small collar.

For general wear tweed, broadcloth and wool mixtures, also moire are good materials for this style.

For dressy wear it may be developed in crepe satin, brocades, or in silk crepe.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small 34-36; medium, 38-40; large 42-44; extra large, 46-48 bust measure. A medium size will require 2½ yards of 54-inch material. If the material is cut crosswise 2¼ yards will be required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE SPRING AND SUMMER 1928 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address all orders to Boston American Pattern Dept., Box 130, Times Plaza Station, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Floors Always Look NEW
Wear is on Wax Polish!

Whether your floors are old or new, wood, linoleum, varnished, shellaced, painted, or waxed—all can quickly be given this needed protection against scratches, heel marks, children's carelessness and dirt.

And so easily! Just apply a thin coat of Old English Wax. Allow a few minutes for drying, then polish by hand or with an Old English Improved Electric Polisher. (You can rent this new wonderful machine from your dealer for $2.50 a day.)

Then you will have beautiful waxed floors that stay beautiful. Never again the need of a complete refinishing! The wear is on the wax, not on the floor. An occasional waxing will keep it beautiful.

Old English Wax contains such a high percentage of hard, high-grade Carnauba wax (imported) that the wax goes farther, and the polish lasts longer. It costs no more than ordinary floor wax. That's why it is preferred by hundreds of thousands of thrifty housewives—whose mothers and grandmothers also used it.

A one-pound can covers 300 square feet—or about two ordinary sized rooms. You can also buy it in two, four and eight-pound cans at quite a saving over the smaller sizes.

On sale at paint, hardware, housefurnishing and department stores.

THE POLISH THAT PROTECTS

Oranges Insure Health

Juicy, luscious Sunkist Oranges

Eat plenty of oranges, your doctor will advise, because they offset acidity, correct ACIDOSIS and naturally stimulate the body through their mineral salts and vitamins.

To keep up with the business-battle line, open the day with orange juice. An orange salad at noon is nourishing as well as refreshing. An orange dessert for dinner is not only delightful but healthful and easily digested.

Sunkist Oranges—fresh in your home throughout the year—are juicy, tender and delicious. They are easiest to peel and to separate or slice. For 5-minute desserts and 10-minute salads these oranges have no near rivals. And best of all, everyone enjoys oranges—they do not tire appetites.

For the school lunch box, Sunkist Oranges are first choice because they are sweet and luscious and of uniform quality. Children thrive on a bountiful supply of oranges. They are a positive aid to robust good health. There is a size for every pocketbook. Buy them everywhere fruit is sold.

Adventure and Romance Amid Scenes of Almost Barbaric Splendor

We were about all ready for anything in the way of battle on our grounded steamer when a canoe came alongside. It was Nina, the headman and a couple of his witch doctors and Nina spoke to me just. She was nattily dressed in the European togs I had given to her and spoke in a firm voice which I understood come and see us at once, you will receive protection if not you will be attacked and will surely die.

She looked me steadily in the eye as she spoke and insisted on my following her at once. I thanked her at once but told her I had a surprise in store for anyone if they cared to come and try at this she smiled and said don't be foolish they dont want to kill you I will see to that, but your boat is fast they are ready to attack you and I give you this chance, come with me

I told her how thankful I was to her but I could not leave the ship I had got it into trouble and would get it out. She said no more but I noticed a water blot you call a tear in her blue eye. I waved her good bye we said no more she had risked her life to save me

There was nothing could help me only my rifles I had confidence in them so had my boys, in fact I wanted a go-in with these river men If I won which I knew I would I was as good as King of the river. I knew the native, if I licked him I had his friendship.

We had not long to wait as out from the Isogo point shot two war canoes bearing straight down on us. Iwolo now proposed a drink and stood behind us as we mounted the poop field glasses in hand. We took things easy and opened out at 800 yards on Isogis fleet. As we potted them they began to hesitate, and then making a swift turn back we played skittles with them the canoes showed signs of the wildest disorder. This tickled Iwolo who started up a song (Iduma anywary calls a mo sacks the cheek of a slave always comes to grief. We potted them till all agreed to leave them alone and leave some of them living, we felt like going ashore and taking the town and killing Isogy.

And now that a fleet of 20 put out from Rengogue but shared a worse fate as we popped at them at 1000 yards and the effect was plainly visible they returned. They had a life's surprise, I had all shots and we drank and amused ourselves whilst beaconing them on shore to come out awhile.

They had the easiest licking I ever saw and from that time on I always commanded the river. With a loss of nothing but a couple of hundred cartridges I had quieted the river to stay quiet. And old General Iwolo always smiled when we spoke of the battle at Isogis.

"Sudden Rising of the River Was a Piece of Luck"

After another piece of luck, which was the sudden rising of the river a couple of feet, we felt quite independent so I turned the big paddles round and dropped anchor at N[illegible]nas Sacred town The inhabitants seemed afraid of us to begin with but I hailed the Sacred chief who came off in his best canoe along with several of his witch men

I received them well on board but let them see I was prepared for any eventualities that might arise. This was a good advertisement as they had seen how well we had disposed of our enemies without a scratch I noticed he had his weather eye on our rifles and took all in

I never even mentioned the battle only to say that anyone who was foolish enough to bother us would regret it, and furthermore I told him my wishes had all been granted and if he wished I would come on shore and make another wish. He said I could wait till they had composed themselves as there had been quite a number of influential men on shore who had been shot. And of course I was sorry especially as Isogis son had been killed

Of course I expected as I was a full member of the temple to be treated like any other member of the faithful and to this he agreed, but as the doctors were fixing up the wounded, they would prefer remaining quiet, in fact he had been adverse to one member of the temple fighting another. But I chimed in this boat of mine and the goods were mine and they had attacked me what had he to say about it.

He could only tell me he was never in favor of the attack and said in a whisper we warned you as a brother did we not. Of course you did I answered you offered me protection if I would leave the boat and I shall always be thankful to you for that warning and furthermore I have come here purposely to reward you all for your good action now the battle is over and I want you to make peace with everybody on my account.

These wise men now had a contab and said they understood me exactly and would be glad of any help I could give them so as to commence peacemaking. I asked them to state what they wanted and they asked me for five cases of gin and two bottles of rum and they would begin to move away every evil spirit in the river after which there could be nothing but peace.

"I Had the Gin and Rum Placed in the Canoe"

I had the gin and rum placed in their canoe at once and they promised to return and tell me how they had gone on in spirit land but begged me not to come on shore until they had returned.

In about two hours the sacred boat put off with Nina and the old chief at the bow standing. She looked radiant and in the stern sat Chief Isogi, who seemed to be depressed. He disclaimed all blame for the Attack and blamed the creek men who had acted without orders I made them all welcome and treated them as if nothing had happened

Nina was dressed in European style and on parting shook hands with me leaving a short note (Trust no one) or (Beware). I noticed the chief's eyes cast on my rifle brigade and especially old Iwolo whom they all knew as the best fighter and general of the whole Cammas. They all went off smiling but could not help seeing that we were alert.

I had made a good impression on them and as they had downed many a ship in this very spot and I knew they were treacherous to a man I felt proud as they retired friendly with my roose. All the same I had steam always ready and sudden death to any false move were my orders to my fighting Chief Old Iwolo

The river rose quickly and the captain reported ten feet or more in the channel between the long sandbanks. So we hove anchor and with a full head of steam were soon thudding away up the Ogowe. The natives cheered us lustily as we passed onward and eventually passing Her Shiffs we were all safe and sound alongside the pier at Adimanongo.

There was a great gathering of traders ashore and discharging cargo was the order of the day Sinclair was glad to see us. As the river fell slightly after our arrival, I took a good two days rest which I badly needed Now the reloading traders' purchasers took place and early morning all being ready we sailed for far-off Samba Falls. A young Presbyterian mission lady (Miss——) came aboard and to my surprise she was bound for Samba Falls and was the first white lady who ever visited there I could not help but admire her courage.

Interesting indeed are the "old visiter's" observations at this point made to Mrs. Lewis after finishing this chapter.

"That old Pioneer sure came up to the scratch

"I've been saving up this river fight to put in a bit of prowess for a reviver. When you're cornered, battle out! Keep your self-respect between your teeth! A fight lost in Africa's the world lost. Other places'll give you a second chance The Ivory Coast gives you only one

"Twould never 'a' done for me to listen to Nina T——. 'You'd better come,' she said A strange look that girl had sometimes . . .

"No Ma'am, you'd hardly say I was in love. My little ringletted lass of the lily ponds in a Lancashire lane kept my heart But it was only in Nature for a boy to have a good stare at those eyes of a goddess looking at him so strangely. Kind but piercing they were. She'd never seen a light-haired boy and perhaps it brought memories of her father.

"'Tis a good thing I knew her so intimately Any book, to catch the fancy, needs some [illegible] like Nina Somethin' that continues in the background and provides colour Aye Come to Nina's story I would have crammed the whole narrative into three or four chapters There was little enough [illegible] But come to a book you need [illegible] understanding of [illegible] why I've had to weave it [illegible] what meagre. shoulder. He was tying his tie, chin tilted ceiling-ward He stood before the chiffonier in that hideous stage of masculine adornment that immediately precedes the climb into the trousers.

It is a stage all wives know, a stage during which they are irresistibly moved to give vent to any connubial irritation, on any score, that may be rankling in their bosoms.

Ted's trousers, which lay like a mourning band across the rose satin bedspread, would be donned in just a minute. So would the coat and vest that reposed beside them In the meantime, from the knees up he was all shapeless shirt and below the knees he appeared as the young man appears in the garter advertisements

"You're a sight," said Irene crisply

She turned back to her own mirror, and while inducing the lipstick to stick out its vivid tongue said further, "You made those drinks too strong, Ted! What were you trying to do—put everybody to bed for the week-end?"

"Nobody's lit."

"Pierce is."

"Pierce always is."

It was not the habit of Mrs. Matthews to concede Mr. Matthews the last word in any debate, but he had it in this one. She remained mute, absorbed in the vital business of transforming her rather bloodless mouth into a gay little scarlet butterfly-on-the-wing

Women said—charitably for they said it among themselves—that Irene Matthews did more with what Nature had allowed her than any other woman alive She was not beautiful except for her limpid green eyes, she had not a single beautiful feature But when she was groomed and coiffed and tinted she gave an effect [illegible] so good as to deceive half the people she met

Her hair, born an uninteresting mouse brown had been dyed to the bright gleam of a new penny Her scant lashes were mascaroed until they seemed twice their thickness She applied makeup of all kinds with a liberal hand and had the wit then to rub most of it off again the result was a skin you like to look at. Dr. Reed Discusses Some of the Causes of Obesity

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the National Medical Association.

YOU have heard much and often from me in protest against reducing your normal fat below the normal limit. It seems but fair that I should say something to you about abnormal fat, that is to say fat in excess of the normal proportion. This is the condition called obesity

Until a short time ago a stout person, particularly if he had a ruddy complexion, was never considered an object of pity Surplus flesh was considered a sign of good living and physical fitness. "Let me have men about me that are fat," says Julius Ceasar in Shakespeare's play. Now, however, physicians and public alike are beginning to recognize that obesity is not a mark of health, but really a symptom of constitutional inferiority They often find it the forerunner of serious and fatal diseases such as hardening of the arteries, fatty degeneration, diabetes, etc.

The reason for the change has been the awakening of the public to the message of vital statistics which point out the larger percentage of mortality among obese people. This, in turn, has led to a great alteration in the public [illegible]

Nowadays men and women are more concerned with reducing their weight and keeping slim. It is a good thing to keep fit [illegible] unfortunately the desire is too often only a senseless fad People, to carry out this fad do all sorts of damaging things instead of going to the physician who is the only person who really knows about the condition and is qualified to deal with it. The mere physical culture specialist has no [illegible]

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

WHO said: LIFE is what you FAKE it?

And what is fake anyway? Personally, I am a little AFRAID of him. He is probably the half-brother of BLUFF and both may be the offsprings of BUNK

Of course, some people live on BUNK, and live well, but at that they will usually be found to be MORAL dyspeptics Eventually they lose all sense of VALUES. They become like the man who said of a SUNSET that it was as pretty as a picture postcard, and like the girl who said of a vase of FLOWERS, "Are they REAL? My, they are so beautiful I thought they were IMITATION."

Strong men believe that life is what you make it, and make as much hay as they can while the SUN SHINES. Some [illegible] make the BEST of everything, [illegible] of themselves. Others go still FURTHER and if, in a misguided moment they take an unsuitable MATE they make the best of HER too That is GENIUS For did not some one say genius was the infinite capacity for taking PAINS? Some girls believe LIFE is all in how you take it So some take as MUCH as they can get, others take it as EASY as they can

There are some men also who just take hold of the PLEASANT things of life, and let others take the RESPONSIBILITY These are the small pimples on the face of the earth They MAR the surface and are merely an EXCRESCENCE Still, old Father Time gets their NUMBER though he often takes his time about CALLING them up or should one say DOWN? It seems one can CHEAT oneself quite easily but one cannot cheat LIFE For the fact remains that the years are the THREADS, and our lives are either a sorry web or a gay DESIGN, according to the PATTERN we have woven With [illegible] TAPESTRIES [illegible] great [illegible]

How To Improve Your Complexion

The secret of a good complexion lies in having a youthful fresh-looking skin Age has not as much to do with the possession of this valuable charm as many people suppose, for many women well up in the forties have beautiful white, soft, fresh-looking skin and radiant complexions. On the other hand many girls still in their teens have coarse looking skin and poor complexions. The reason for this lies in the care given your face and hands. Any woman who desires a good clear, youthful looking, white, pretty skin should get from her Druggist a little Ice-Mint and apply this at night just before retiring This nourishes and revitalizes the skin, giving it a fresh, youthful appearance that is a delight to the user. Ice-Mint is used on either face, neck, hands or arms and even a single application will prove its power to rejuvenate and beautify the skin either for young or old Ice-Mint can be had at any Druggists at little cost and it's truly marvelous for its beautifying properties.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONCE, love was believed to be the divine flame of the spirit; now it is regarded as merely a "biological urge," sugar-coated with romance and flavored with curiosity.

But "love" is a word which every man has always defined according to his own symptoms. And the secret of happiness consists of finding the man or woman whose definition agrees with your own.

* * *

You may differ in your literary tastes, your ideas on interior decoration and your notion of a perfectly broiled steak; but if you look at LOVE from the same angle, you at least start "on the same wire."

* * *

Love is as old as Adam—and as new as the "last word" from Paris.

* * *

Love is as wise as the prophets—and as foolish as second childhood.

* * *

Love is as changeless as the stars—and as fickle and uncertain as the moon and the weather.

* * *

Love is the soul of unselfishness—and the most merciless tyrant in the world.

* * *

Love is the distilled essence of spirit and purity—and the triple extract of sin.

* * *

Love is the "dope" which makes a strong man weak—and the stimulant which makes a weak man strong.

* * *

Love is comradeship sprinkled with star-dust; love is passion thinly covered with imagination and sentiment.

* * *

Love is a wild flower which springs up where it is least expected and thrives and flourishes on neglect. Love is a delicate orchid which requires constant care and scientific cultivation.

* * *

Love is the goad of jealousy—and the staff of sublime faith.

* * *

Love is the magic and mystery which caused Abelard's heart to remain steadfast forever—and caused Solomon's heart to change 700 times.

* * *

Love is what causes one man to idle away his days dreaming of a woman—and inspires another man to sit up nights working for her.

* * *

Love is a will-o-the-wisp which tempts one man to run after a woman—a danger signal which makes another man run away from her.

* * *

Love is a divine fire which keeps the heart alive and glowing. Love is a holocaust which scorches the soul and withers the illusions. Love is a bonfire which brightens a summer holiday.

Love is a game, a tragedy, or a miracle, according to how YOU envision it. High or low, deep or shallow, fine or cheap, beautiful or tawdry, glorious or shabby, you choose your own brand of love!

THIS is J. Pliuary Doakes—once a poor tinn table folder—who, by sheer determination, has perfected a magnetic shirt opener which automatically removes all the pins that shirt manufacturers put in new shirts. It is estimated that his invention will eliminate half the wasteful profanity needlessly expended by nervous middle-class Americans.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Dear Editor—
I am 64 years old—my husband, worth six million, died recently, which automatically makes me a very beautiful woman. I remarried a young movie sheik. Imagine his embarrassment when the will was read and all of the money was left to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
Mr. Editor, here's a story about the star the gateman wouldn't let into the studio.

DON'T ANNOY CHILDREN

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

"SHE is the worst child I ever saw," declared Diane's mother. "Nobody can do anything with her except Frances."

Now, Diane is only going-on-four and she couldn't be so very terrible at that age.

She has big blue eyes, red-gold ringlets on her head, skin that looks like peaches and cream, and a cute little mouth—when it isn't puckered up for crying. A baby like that invites indulgence. It also reflects something else.

The mother is young and pretty, and she is exceedingly busy doing all of the pleasant things that girls like to do. That makes her tired when she comes home; and that in turn makes her cross and impatient. So when Diane crawls up on the bed beside her and wiggles or kicks too much, this is the way her mother speaks to her:

"Go put on your gown and go to bed! I'm going to whip you in a minute."

Off and on, every day, I hear that young mother repeating that distressing phrase, "I'm going to whip you."

When the mother is away—as she is most of the time—the nurse takes up the refrain.

That poor youngster lives in an atmosphere of threats, fault-finding and harsh words.

Aunt Frances works; but when she is at home, evenings or on dull days, Diane is a different child. Her eyes sparkle, her face is wreathed in smiles; her waits give way to laughter and she follows Aunt Frances around chatting about all the things that are in her busy mind.

Aunt Frances is too tired to entertain Diane, but she is calm and peaceable and affords a sort of lean-post for the restless child. Somehow, she seems to expect Diane to act like a sensible human being. When the little girl fails to do so the big girl speaks to her in authoritative tones which indicate obedience.

Up and down the streets, in the yards, on the porches, in the homes of good people, I often hear the voices of grown-ups barking harshly at little children.

"Put that down!" "Get up off that ground!" "Stop that!" "Come here to me!"

Why on earth can't they express their commands in tones that sound instead of irritate? Ugly tones, black looks, little shakes and pushes that children receive make them petulant, hateful and hard to control.

Every woman knows how aggravating, nerve-wracking and tiresome a little child can be, but the daily care of her child is a mother's JOB. She can make her task much easier for herself if she will speak in gentle tones, and leave off threats and implications. Other members of the family will probably follow her example, and if a nursemaid insists upon cross words and angry gestures—she is worse than useless.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 30 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids, 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

EVERYBODY IS TALKING ABOUT STOCKS

By B. C. FORBES

New York, May 15—"Almost every patient I see talks stocks. I have never seen anything like it before in my long experience." This observation comes from a well-known doctor. My barber has frequently made a similar comment. Business men one meets from other cities throughout the country nearly all tell the same story: An astonishing number of persons of all ranks are now keenly interested in stock speculation.

B. C. Forbes

All this throws some light on why the market has time and time again advanced to new heights.

The war and its aftermath have changed many things and many methods, business-wise, financial, economic. Hand-to-mouth buying, instalment selling, gigantic consolidations, colossal capital issues for foreign as well as home borrowers, the unprecedented spread of stock ownership—these are a few of the important changes.

The tremendous broadening of the stock market base, both to the amount of stock listed and the number of buyers and sellers, accounts in some measure, at least, for the developments during the market's unparalleled rise.

The greater a movement the greater its momentum. The stock market movement has attained proportions altogether without precedent. That it should go farther beyond reasonable limits than past bull movements went is entirely logical.

Here is another consideration:

A large percentage of those now participating in the market have never been through a panic, or even a sustained bear market. Since they began to dabble in stocks the general trend has been upward. Many small investors and speculators have therefore, got it into their heads that the market can go only one way. They have discovered a delightfully easy and pleasant way to make money and they wonder why they were such fools as not to have learned this intoxicating secret long ago. The child whose fingers have never been burned hasn't learned to dread the fire.

With the exception of W. C. Durant, not one of those whose names are handled about as being the king-pins of the bull leaders is a veteran of many stock market battles. Durant has been through the mill at least twice before, but both times he overreached himself with fatal financial consequences.

Bernard N. Baruch's name is scarcely heard. Nearly all those who are credited with swinging the heaviest lines of stock are fellows who have become stock market giants only within the last few years. Like many of the little outsiders, they have never yet been put to a severe test.

Developments which old-timers interpret as danger signals are gaily ignored by those now in the speculative saddle. Brokers' loans keep on expanding to unheard-of dimensions. The Federal Reserve Banks are being drawn upon very heavily for credit. Gold exports since the present outflow began approximate $500,000,000, and are still going on. The rediscount rate has been twice raised at half a dozen centers. Call money has been costing 5½ per cent and all other borrowing rates have stiffened.

• • •

Then, quite significant to old fogies, the income yield on favorite stocks is now below the cost of money, so far have prices been marked up.

• • •

There has been no quickening of the industrial and business pace commensurate with the action of the stock market. The motor industry continues the star performer. Steel reports are a little less encouraging than they were. Building activity is spotty. Railway traffic runs below one year ago and two years ago. Unemployment is still a problem worthy of very serious consideration. And we are on the eve of the Presidential convention.

• • •

How long the contrast between conditions in the stock market and outside the stock market will be continued, one has become tired of trying to guess.

Speculation "Can't Be Killed Off," Says Ayres

New York, May 15 (AP)—Alluding to the wave of speculation in the stock market which has extended to all parts of the country and drawn in all classes of population, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, says increasing thousands of first-time speculators are watching their paper profits mount, and are concluding that anyone who works for a living is a boob.

"It is almost literally true that great waves of speculation, like the present one, cannot be killed off; they have to commit suicide."

BOSTON 'GUESS' BY BROKERS HITS MARK

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Several weeks ago a Boston brokerage house gave its customers a special bulletin to the effect that President Coolidge might be drafted to run again at the coming convention. The "guess" was ridiculed by many at the time, but it appears to have hit the mark in view of the fact that Secretary Mellon says flatly that "the President may be a candidate." The difference between "may" and "will" was recognized by the Boston brokers as well as by Secretary Mellon.

In this column several weeks ago reference was made to the increasing production of manufactures in color, ranging from clocks to cutlery, etc. The next color product is in the kodak line, evolved by George Eastman, benefactor of the Massachusetts Institute of Technoloyy to the tune of many millions. The "vanity" line of kodaks may be expected further to aid the cause of collegiate education.

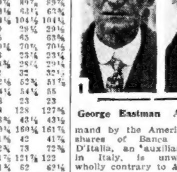
It may prove a good thing for workers, too, since Mr. Eastman was the originator of the idea of "wage dividends" for his employes.

• • •

If all corporation presidents were like A. P. Giannini and his associates, there would be no dangerous expansion of paper values of securities—perhaps! James A. Bacigalupi, president of the Bank of Italy, says: "The continuing demand by the American public for shares of Banca D'America E D'Italia, an auxiliary corporation in Italy, is unwarranted and wholly contrary to A. P. Giannini's and to our advice. From the last published statement of the bank, it would appear that actual value of the stock it about $6 a share. Its par value is $5.28 and the last dividend declared was at a rate of 5 per cent. In the face of these facts and the limited marketability of the stock anyone paying $15 or $16 a share is ill-advised."



George Eastman A. P. Giannini

Robert Reis (Ris) sold up to its old high, 12½, on rumors that announcement will be forthcoming shortly of plan to pay off accumulated dividends on preferred stock. This would place the common in line for early dividend. Preferred stock advanced five points last week to new high on good buying. Preferred stock has now been paying regular current dividend at 7 per cent rate since third quarter, 1926. When accumulations are cleared up it is believed dividend action may follow on common stock some time this year.

Hornblower & Weeks look for a good market for copper and oil shares. This house says: "Copper share activity, which is logically based on the strong statistical position of the metal and the advance in copper metal price of ⅛ of a cent a pound, with forecast of another similar increase shortly, should continue today under the same leadership noted in yesterday's market. Trade news of similar character in the oil industry is expected by midweek to furnish basis for spirited buying in the gasoline oils."

Commenting on brokerage margins, Gurnett & Co. say: "It is probable that the profits of a large percentage of traders who have been buying stocks have been negligible. The most important factor in this lack of success is the element of fear, and the immediate cause of the latter emotion in this case can be traced to an overextending position and its resultant feeling of insecurity. The trader in such a position becomes over-anxious for immediate profits and timid of the ordinary day-to-day flucuations, with the result that a substantial profit is rarely obtained, while frequent small and unnecessary losses are registered. This would not be so if clients would observe such a degree of conservatism that the element of fear would be eliminated and judgment predominate. In other words, the biggest aid to successful trading is the maintenance of excess margin at all times. The average person's judgment on a stock is usually right if that judgment were only given a chance."

Economic survey by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., shows that there were 15,000,000 buyers of securities last year, compared with 500,000 15 years ago. Population in 1910 was 91,972,266 and in 1926 had increased to 117,136,000. Approximately 21 per cent of increase in security sales in 1927 was estimated to have represented refunding operations. In 5 years, 1923 to 1927 inclusive, American investors purchased 36,965 issues, stocks and bonds, to value of $31,806,783,000. Steady growth is shown by yearly totals: 1923, $4,912,760,000; 1924, $6,064,000,000; 1925, $6,811,810,000; 1926, $7,213,520,000; 1927, $9,804,690,000.

WESTINGHOUSE EARNINGS 14 MILLIONS

As shown by the annual report of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, which was sent to the stockholders today, the sales of the company for the year ending March 31, 1928, were, in round numbers, $175,000,000.

The net manufacturing profit was $14,000,000; the net income available for dividends was $15,600,000, and the earnings per share of stock (preferred and common) were $6.57, or 13.4 per cent. Dividends were paid during the year on both stocks at the rate of 8 per cent, per annum, or $4 per share of $50 par value.

These figures indicate a slight decrease in business as compared with the previous year, when the annual sales totalled $185,500,000, and $6.80 was earned a share.

The balance sheet shows current assets aggregating $122,000,000, which is more than eight times the current liabilities, aggregating $15,000,000.

The sum of $3,000,000, representing a federal income tax no longer required, was restored to the surplus; a reserve of $1,800,000 was created for pensions and other possible adjustments, and the account for patents, charters and franchises, previously $4,700,000, was written down to $1.

After pointing out that approximately $40,000,000 has been spent in the past six years for new plants and extensions to existing ones, Paul D. Cravath, acting chairman, and E. M. Herr, president, stated:

"All plants have been provided with modern facilities and the company is now equipped to take care of business, at present prices, of more than 25 per cent in excess of this year's shipments. In providing these facilities, moves were made that enabled the company to inaugurate advantageous mass production methods."

The various activities of the company in the interest of its employes are being continued with satisfactory results, it is stated. Among these activities are: An employes' savings fund, employes' insurance, and the building of houses for employes. The average total number of employes during the year was 41,787, and the total of all payrolls exceeded $70,000,000.

QUICK ACTION IN COMPLAINT TO HEALTH CHIEF

will bless you for your good work in protecting innocent children. I have been a reader of your paper for 20 years.

Respectfully,

READER.

This complaint was investigated by me at once, and I found conditions just as above described. Particulars of the case were furnished to the city health authorities, who thereupon took prompt remedial action.

COMPLAINT MADE

The attention of the store management was drawn to the offending practices and they were warned that candies must at all times be protected from possible contamination. Arrangements have been made that will remove cause for complaint in this regard.

We wish to emphasize once again that this newspaper will co-operate to the fullest extent with the health departments of the various cities and towns.

Returning to the letter quoted above, further comment seems necessary to bring about the importance of one objection pointed out.

This is in reference to the custom in many candy stores of having the same girl who handles money and makes change likewise handle unwrapped candy.

On the face of it this is an objectionable practice, because the free transfer of money from place to place and person to person, leaves it far from being uncontaminated. It follows as a matter of course that in time the hands of the operator may become affected. Candy is a sensitive product, which, unlike say fruit or vegetables, cannot be cleaned before use.

WRAPPERS NEEDED

It is distinctly up to the candy retailer to see that he gets clean, wholesome candy from the factory, and that it is kept clean and wholesome until it reaches the consumer.

A practical solution is to have candy intended for sale placed in a proper wrapper. In any event the handling of the candy itself is entirely undesirable, and at least bright, clean scoops or similar implement should be used for such purposes.

Another view of the unwrapped candy situation is this: Consider the little local store, where a variety of goods besides candy is dispensed. It is usually a one-man store, and perhaps a helper from time to time is engaged.

At one minute the store man may fill an order for kerosene or potatoes, or what not, and instantly be in demand at the candy case, where an anxious youngster waits. There is no exaggeration in that particular picture.

The health of one little child is a thousand times more important than it is to have some careless or unscrupulous vendor profit by his nefarious trade.

DARBY PETROLEUM AT HIGH IN NEW YORK

New York, May 15—Darby Petroleum sold at a new high in New York Curb trading today. Darby and other oils were active. The opening was featured by a sale of 40,000 shares of Fox Theatres at 30½, up ⅛. Steadiness prevailed, with Gobel, Inc., up ⅜ at 119⅜, and Southeaster Power & Light unchanged at 59⅞. Carib Syndicate was unchanged at 21.

Radic Dialog

THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING CO. may expect to be called upon or at least memorialized in solemn protest by a delegation representing the combined Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Civitans, plus the Chamber of Commerce of Salem, if it devolps that tonight's Socony Sketch actually brings a witch to execution. Long and vigorously has our North Shore seaport denied the charge that sundry doddering beldams, accused of intercourse with the Prince of Darkness, have meted out supreme punishment by the town authorities. In the face of these protests, we are promised a real witching party tonight, unless the Socony authorities decide to pour oil on the troubled seas of neighborly dispute.

Spook Stories Thrill

AT ALL EVENTS, the Salem broadcast ought to be amusing. The radio is an admirable medium for spooky entertainment. Ghost stories, detective dramas, blood-and-thunder melodrama and all sorts of spine shivering stunts are far more effective than the interminable pounding of jazz orchestras or the thin offerings of individual musical performers. The Collier Hour has resumed its snap and vigor with the return of the Emperor of America. Socony's broadcasts of the Ride of Ichabod Crane and the adventures of Rip Van Winkle reeked with atmosphere. Why not offer some more grave-yard travelogues, visits to morgues and dissecting rooms of the medical colleges and a few snappy descriptions of a modern metropolitan disposals plant?

Standard Sets Coming

THE AUTOMATIC riveter is on the air. If you hear a rat-tat-tat-tat in your loud speaker at odd intervals, you may suspect television. Half a dozen or more stations are fooling with it in the expectation that the radio public is going to go looney once more on the subject of set building. Unfortunately, television to date isn't so very hot. Some day we'll have it, and perhaps much sooner than the experts predict, but there is no reason why the most impatient of us cannot wait and buy complete standard and dependable receiving sets, when they are on the market, rather than cluttering up cellar and garret, salon and salle de bain, now with a jumble of discs and condensers and all sorts of trick what-you-callems which probably won't work when they are finally hooked together.

Like a Sand Storm

ROUGHLY speaking, and with all gentleness of intention, television consists in breaking down a perfectly innocent photograph into a bunch of dots like a newspaper halftone, only about one-fiftieth as distinct, and shooting them into the air, dot by dot. He who wishes may collect and reassemble them. The ultimate result may be called Mary Garden in "Thighs," even though it looks like a Bactrian camel in a sand-storm. Meanwhile, perfectly well-behaved audible programs are punctuated with these confounded dots at the rate of so many per second.

Small Field

TODAY'S various systems of television, deprived of the mystifying elements suggested by scanning discs, neon lamps and such, can pick up an image occupying about three square feet of flat surface, and transmit it, as a sort of silhouette or shadow picture, a distance of a few miles, where it can be picked up and seen in a compass of one and one-half inches square. The family is supposed to gather in unwonted density and close embrace, and to watch the birth of the thrilling scene in a space smaller than is usually devoted by a newspaper to a weather report.

Better Heard Than Seen

IF THE PUBLIC is so anxious to see what is going on in radio stations, there is at least one radio editor who can satisfy that curiosity without the aid of television. Bushels of photographs which are more or less faithful likenesses of radio performers, are received every week. Undoubtedly, if some of them were published, the adoring public would suffer a certain disillusionment. The great movie broadcast proved that cinema stars should be seen and not heard. Likewise, it would seem that many of the petted babies of the radio are better off wrapped in a fog of visual mystery.

STATE PUSHES FISH PRICE PROBE

Nine men, dealing with fish brought into the port of Boston, are called before the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life as the beginning of a sweeping investigation into the price of fish in Boston.

The men called include three wholesale fish dealers from the Fish Pier, three captains of fishing vessels and three retail dealers.

The probe is an outgrowth of the episode of the fishing schooner William S., whose crew could not dispose of their cargo of flounders at a price that would pay for the trip and consequently gave the fish away.

Representatives of the wholesale fish dealers met the commission yesterday, protesting that they had been treated unfairly in the publicity given the William S. episode, and asked to be exonerated, but Chairman Adams declined to give them any such exoneration.

The official statement of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life at the conclusion of yesterday's conference with the dealers was as follows:

"The hearing was held because of the complaint of the crew of the William S. that they were unable to dispose of their fish at the pier at more than one-fifth of one cent a pound, and they proposed to sell it at retail at T Wharf.

The next day they obtained a price at the pier of two cents per pound for 4700 pounds, one cent per pound for 10,000 pounds, and they went to T Wharf and gave away to the public the balance of about 9000 pounds of flounders, according to Mr. Steele.

"At the time this grade of fish was selling in the retail markets at from 18 cents to 35 cents a pound. in the filet form. It is claimed by the fish men that two-thirds of the fish is waste.

"Throughout the hearing the statements were made by various members of the wholesale trade, including President Dunn, that the gross profits to them on the fish at wholesale did not exceed one cent per pound; that the fish which they bought at one cent per pound was sold by them at two cents per pound, and, therefore, the balance of the retail price charged the public went to the retail distributor for waste, expense and profit. The wholesalers disclaimed any advantage from the securing of the fish at the low price of one cent per pound from the vessel."

President Dunn of the New England Fish Exchange will appoint a committee from that organization, the Fishing Masters' Association be requested to send a committee, and it is presumed that the retail trade will desire to be represented.

WILLYS TELLS OF EXPANSION

Toledo, O., May 15—In the midst of the greatest buying demand in its history, the Willys Overland Co. has already achieved new production and sales records, John N. Willys, president, declared at the annual meeting of the company's stockholders here today.

"Indications are that earnings in the second quarter will be highly satisfactory," Mr Willys said, following re-election of the present officers and board of directors.

"Since the first of the year when the Whippet Four prices were reduced to a new low level, Willys Overland has expanded its production facilities to meet the greatest buying demand in its history, and we are now reaping the benefits of our carefully projected price policies which have justified themselves.

"Willys Overland has never before been in such a strong position as it now occupies to meet competition on an aggressive basis. In the last five years $42,000,000 has been applied for rehabilitating equipment, developing products and providing additional capacity at Toledo, Elmira, N. Y.; Pontiac, Mich., and Elyria, O. This has been done to improve quality and to so lower production costs as to make it possible to compete on a price basis with any manufacturer.

"We are maintaining an average production of 1600 cars a day, the largest daily average ever attained by the company."

BUSY VOLCANO BLOWS OFF 7000 TIMES A DAY

Batavia, Java, May 15 (AP)—The volcanic island of Krakatoa has been extremely active during the past 24 hours, erupting 7000 times. A number of the eruptions rose 1,300 feet in the air. They were accompanied by a rain of ashes. Innumerable explosions were heard. The volcanic activity was subsiding today.

Krakatoa, a small island of the Malay Archipelago between Sumatra and Java, is memorial as the scene of a series of volcanic eruptions in 1883. These blew away two-thirds of the island and a gigantic wave formed, drowning 20,000 persons.

Winslow the estate numbered 63-65 Commercial st. This property consists of a five-story and basement mercantile building, taxed for $85,000. Both properties are leased and the purchases have been made for investment.

Raise Funds for Peru Flight

Lima, Peru, May 15 (AP)—Funds are being raised by popular subscription to finance the airplane flight of Carlos Martinez Pinillos from New York to this city. He is on his way to New York for a plane.

"Old Tom" Tibbles, of Civil War Fame, Dies in Nebraska at 88

Omaha, Neb., May 15 (AP)—Preacher, fighter, writer and once candidate for Vice-President, "Old Tom" Tibbles is dead.

A six-year-old runaway from his home in 1846, Thomas Henry Tibbles was picked up by an immigrant train enroute to Kansas. Before 16 he was sentenced to be hanged as an Abolitionist, but escaped under a rain of bullets.

In the Civil War Tibbles actually was hanged by Raider Quantrell's gang. Left swinging from a tree, he was cut down by friends.

At 16 Tibbles was a friend and fellow fighter with John Brown. When his first wife died he was re-married to "Bright Eyes," Indian princess of the Ponca tribe. "Bright Eyes" was immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow as "Minnehaha" in "Hiawatha."

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

The Air Mail Has a Birthday

The most important lesson learned from the first transmission of mail by airplane—on this day TEN YEARS AGO—was that the greatest value of the plane in the delivery of mail would be found in long-distance flights.

The first flights were between New York and Washington, 219 miles. The planes were Army planes, the aviators Army officers, loaned to the Postoffice Department.

In ten short years the nestling has become a full-fledged eagle. Last year the air mail amounted to 1,485,280 pounds, the equivalent of 59,411,200 letters.

At the end of three months the Postoffice Department was ready with its own fliers. In the first year, 1200 trips were made. Having demonstrated the practicability of the air mail and the need of such a service, the Department less than a year ago left the field to private operators and today the mail is carried by 21 commercial air firms.

You can mail a letter in Boston late this afternoon and feel reasonably sure that it will cross the continent in 28 hours. Send the same letter by mail and you must "allow" 92 hours. The Boston service, by the way, dates back only to July 1, 1926.

In point of time, thanks to the Air Mail, we are much closer to San Francisco than the Boston of the Revolution was to New York. In those "good" old days, the mail coach left Boston for New York three times a week in Summer, twice a week in Winter. If everything went well the journey over the road was made in 6 days in Summer or 9 days in Winter and early Spring.

The success of the air mail depended first upon men with the nerve to fly and next upon men of means with the nerve to back them. America is blest in both. Wherever this anniversary is observed—and it should be observed everywhere—it will be recalled that once upon a time there was a youngster in the Air Mail service who was known to his mates as "Slim" Lindbergh.

Our Air Mail is the best in the world.
Its men are the best in the world.
Neither service nor men can subsist on cheers.

Burying a Baby

Poor Little Princess Hisa

ON THE WAY TO PEACE

This picture, strange to our eyes, shows the funeral of little Princess Hisa, daughter of the Mikado of Japan.

Only sixteen months old, the little girl was carried from this world by influenza in the course of a severe epidemic that swept through Japan.

It took victims from the laborer's cottage and the Mikado's palace, sparing none because of rank or power.

Very solemn was the funeral in the great City of Tokio. In the picture you see priests walking in advance of the little body, carried on the shoulders of a dozen powerful men.

CHILDREN PRAYING IN SCHOOL

This picture shows little Japanese children worshipping at a shrine on which stands the portrait of the dead baby in the temple of her imperial ancestors.

Similar scenes were seen in schools all over Japan.

All fathers and mothers will sympathize with the Japanese Mikado and with the child's mother.

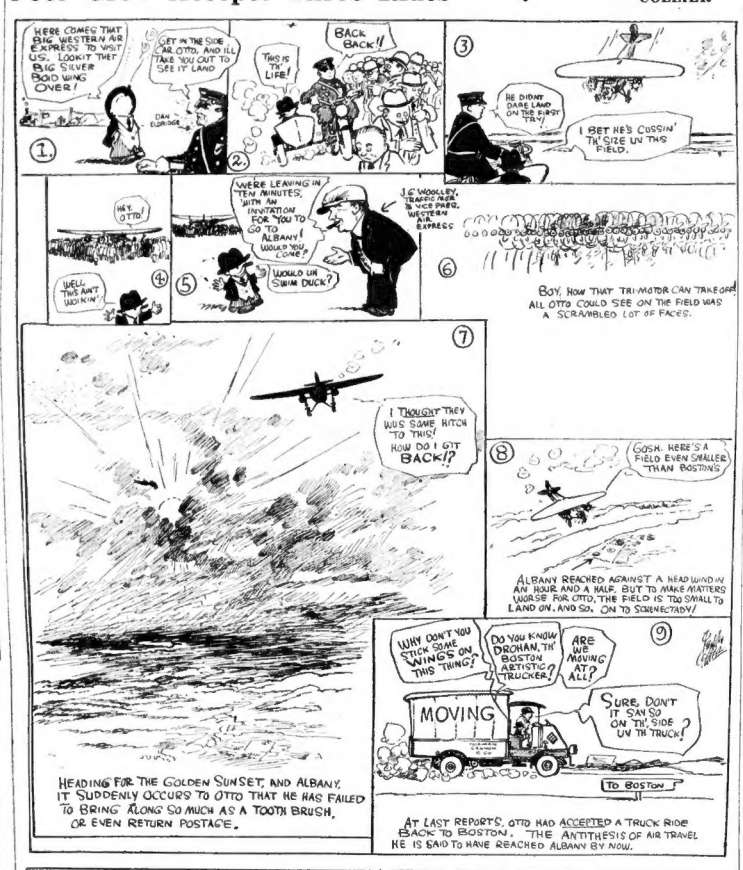
Otto Grow Accepts Three Rides -:- By FRANKLIN COLLIER



HABIT IS A BULWARK OF GOODNESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE bulwark of goodness is habit. The best presumption that you will do good is not a strong resolution or a sudden conversion, nor a great emotion. It is the fact that you always have been good.

Habits are usually spoken of in a derogatory sense. We talk of bad habits, and a victim of habit, and so on. When we say habit we think of the habit of drinking, of smoking, of gambling and the like.

It is true that many pursue the downward path because they have fallen into bad habits, but we overlook the fact that many keep the upward path merely because they have formed good habits. Habit simply means that you have done a thing so long or so often that you unconsciously do it. It does itself, so to speak.

Habit is accumulation of character behind a given deed, and it is the best assurance that that deed will be performed in a certain way.

In crossing the street you perform a thousand motions and make a thousand decisions, yet all the while your mind is busy over what you will have for dinner. Matters vital to your life are decided quickly and unconsciously from force of habit. You dodge automobiles, obey traffic signals, avoid running into foot passengers, tip your hat to a lady, watch your step at the curb and do 40 other little things that you ought to do, smoothly and without thinking. Habit takes you through untold dangers while your mind is busy elsewhere.

When the Master said that a certain man's house was founded on a rock he indicated the nature of that rock. It was that the man had kept his sayings all his life. That man's house is not founded on a rock who is converted or who makes a good resolution or who has a strong emotion, but it is that man who has been in the habit of doing right. He is the most firmly fixed and the safest.

We should avoid bad habits in their incipiency, therefore, but that should not blind us to the necessity of forming good habits. They are our best friends.

You have to keep a resolution, but a habit keeps you.

We sometimes say that such and such a one deserves no credit for doing good. It is all a matter of habit. He just does good from force of habit. We forget that that is the very best reason for thinking that one will always do good.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IS travel improving? Maybe. That depends on the traveler.

Much of our traveling is merely a restless bouncing about that doesn't do us a particle of good. We can gain more by entering into the lives of a few small places, thoroughly, than we can by scattering all over the universe.

Successful travel, like successful living, is a matter of quality rather than quantity. It isn't a question of how long you live but how much you live—nor of how far you travel but of how deep you travel.

For years I've gone to a certain small town, whenever I have had a few days to rest or study. There are hardly a hundred people in this town. The locust trees hang over the narrow streets and mingle their honeysweet petals with the deep sleepy dust. The dogs sprawl in the dust and the children play there too—the yellow earth oozing up in little spurts between their wiggling, bare toes.

In the fall mornings, when the sun lies low, the cattle loiter down the streets and the light rings about them in a golden haze. It is, as you can see, a very pokey little town and you'd never think of calling it foreign for it is only a few score miles from my home. And yet I have traveled to all the countries of the earth, and known all the climates of the human heart in that small town.

If I had passed through it hastily I would have seen nothing but crumbling shacks and stagnating lives. But growing into it, as I have done in these many years, I have found beauty and drama, art and philosophy. And amazing adventures.

It is said that each electron—that smallest unit of energy—is a perfect universe in itself. There is a tiny sun and there the diminutive stars revolve about that sun. And there the whole vast wonder of life goes through its orderly round. My little village also mirrors the whole universe.

All the elements of life are there for me to see, if I have the eyes to see them. The romance of Italy, the superstition of Africa, the whole pageant of love and hate, hope and fear, ambition and despair moves along those quiet streets and is at work within those humble rooms.

And though it lies but a few miles from my home, the life there is really as foreign to my life as the Egyptian night would be. And as stimulating.

It is stimulating because I have opened my spirit to its stimulation. I want to find something in that small place and I find it. I have let myself become curious about it and it has given me its secrets in return. It has grown into me and I have grown into it. I travel to the ends of the earth when I go to my dusty town.

And that is the secret of all good traveling. Do you do it with your heart and so widen the frontiers of your life—or do you do it merely with your eyes?

Some people have girdled the globe a dozen times and achieved exactly nothing. And others have never left a wheel chair, yet they are citizens of every nation.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

It is far easier to know men than to know man.—La Rochefoucauld.

An instinct is an agent which performs blindly and ignorantly a work of intelligence and knowledge. —Hamilton.

We can sometimes love what we do not understand, but it is impossible to understand what we do not love.—Jameson.

Clap a gringrusher upon your frony, if you are unhappily blessed with a vein of it.—Lamb.

A memory without a blot or contamination must be an exquisite treasure—an inexhaustible source of pure refreshment.—Bronte.

Though reading and conversation may furnish with many ideas of men and things, yet it is our own meditation must form our judgment. —Watts.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 15—Every columnist is besieged—meaning he receives a letter now and then—about how to write a New York column. As everybody is doing it, the formula seems simple, but like door knob polishing or train wheel tapping, there are certain tricks to the trade.

It is highly important, indeed almost imperative, at the outset to find an editor who will print the stuff. This is often tedious, for editors are a strange people, largely influenced by whims. Many of us have grown beards in the outer offices, waiting to catch them off guard and put over a fast whim.

A columnist should give the impression of possessing sloops and shoals of mail. He must give himself a patina of sophistication now and then by declaring the most popular play in town is tripe. His job is to convey the idea he is quite a fellow, always merry and bright and kind to his folks.

Yet at intervals it is well to pull out the Pacliacci stop of talented despair. The "Laugh Clown, Laugh" obligato will help hide from his readers that his job is really a cinch. And anyway, when a job appears too easy, the editor begins glancing about for a new boy.

One of the rackets in columning is to throw an intellectual smoke screen about the work and thus hide the deficiencies. Sprinkling a few terms like sui generis, tour de force, flagrante delicto and such is dandy and makes the readers suspect you might have been educated abroad.

It is also well to mention tautology, mixed metaphors, split infinitives and other grammatical complexities, as though you know all about them. Then when some glaring "howl" leaps out from the printed page the reader will lay it to journalistic haste, and not ignorance.

When people ask the columnist how in the world he thinks up material to write an article every day, he should merely look like a sick ape, give a deprecatory shrug and murmur: "It is nothing." This will send them off raving about his innate modesty.

COLUMNISTS must appear charitable toward fellow columnists. That is to say, when another member of the tribe is mentioned, immediately respond with: "He's a fine chap." That doesn't mean anything particularly, but hides your true impression he's a bum and has shot his wad.

THE columnists must at all times be versatile. Now and then introduce variety by writing short sentences separated by periods such as: Mayor Walker was late as usual for the theater . . . Marilyn Miller's mash notes require two special secretaries . . . Texas Guinan and her grandpa played leap frog in Central Park this dawn . . . Flo Ziegfeld has received his latest supply of robin's egg blue shirts from Paris.

THUS in a few lines he has mentioned the three absolutely essential personalities for every New York column—Mayor Walker, Texas Guinan and Flo Ziegfeld.

IT is important that the columnist give the appearance of being invited everywhere. No first night performance, night club opening, prize fight or such is supposed to be complete without him. He is busy bowing to celebrities all evening. That is the saga of the columnist, and must be perpetuated. The low down is that few columnists attend such functions and when they do they are about as conspicuous as a walking stick on Fifth Avenue. Sophie Tucker, for instance, will create more of a stir at a first night than all the columnists in town walking two abreast down the center aisle.

THE idea that columning requires special gifts is one of the magnificent myths of the trade. Most of us took it up like people take up soliciting life insurance—after everything else we tried was a flop.

AND so that, children, not only explains how to write a column, but how I happened to marry your aunt—the Duchess.

Cheap Power

But It's in Ontario

In Ontario the citizens own the power companies. You can't do that in the United States, our governing classes, according to high finance, being either too dull or too dishonest. Owners of big corporations assure you that the people cannot manage their own property. But the good old United States California Edison Company, which has bought a power company in Ontario, now offers to supply "juice," meaning electric power, to publicly owned utilities in Ontario for less than it costs to run "gas-propelled utilities."

The price must be low, for the modern Diesel engine at the present price of oil can cut any power rate that the average citizen can get from any electric power company in the United States.

Burying a Baby

There is comfort in the thought that death comes alike to the poor and to the rich, the humble toiler in the rice field and to the ruler of Japan in his splendid palace.

This causes the powerful of all countries to work against disease and to clear up disease germ-breeding quarters of the poor, whence disease travels and knocks at the door of the rich.

We are educated by misfortune and made better by it.
